

Presidential Aides Seek Compromise On Health Care Bill

Measure Not Expected to Pass Without Changes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's lieutenants and his legislative supporters are off on a new and crucial quest—a compromise version of his health care plan which the House Ways and Means Committee might accept. As the committee renewed consideration of the proposal the

Appleton Man Indicted for Tax Evasion

Quaker Dairy Head Charged by Federal Jury on 14 Counts

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A federal grand jury has indicted Ben Cherkasky, president and treasurer of the Quaker Dairy Co., of Appleton, on charges of evading taxes. The indictment, returned by the federal grand jury, charges Cherkasky with 14 counts of evading taxes from April, 1956, through December, 1959.

Cherkasky was served Monday with a summons to appear in U.S. District Court here June 18. The indictment, impounded until service of the summons, was voted last week. It charges Cherkasky with 14 counts of evading social security taxes and 11 counts of evading withholding taxes from April, 1956, through December, 1959.

In that period, Cherkasky is alleged to have filed quarterly federal tax returns listing total taxable wages paid to employees of $364,537 and social security tax deductions of $16,733. The government claims that the wage total should have been $485,763 and the social security deductions $22,061.

Listed $25,511. The indictment alleges that in the same period, Cherkasky's tax returns listed $25,511 in withholding deductions, while the government contends the amount should have been $27,304.

Asst. U.S. Atty. William Mulligan said the maximum penalty on each of the counts was $10,000 and five years in prison.

Mulligan said the investigation, begun in 1960 by the Internal Revenue Service, indicated that the dairy firm, by deducting only a portion of both taxes from employee wages, was able in effect to give employees higher take home pay without increasing the company's salary costs.

Democrats Go to S. Carolina Polls

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The battle between South Carolina's political giants reached the ballot box stage today with Democratic primary voters choosing between incumbent U.S. Sen. Olin D. Johnson and challenger Gov. Ernest F. Hollings.

Primary voters are also in effect electing a governor from among five candidates and deciding contests for five other lesser state offices. Few political experts were willing to predict the outcome of the Senate and governor race.

Republicans are not holding a primary, but in convention nominated W. D. Workman Jr., Columbia syndicated newspaper columnist, for the U.S. Senate, and a former Democrat, State Rep. Floyd Spence of Lexington, for Congress from the 2nd District.

Christian Democrats Lose Ground in Italy

ROME (AP)—Italy's ruling Christian Democratic party lost ground today in returns from municipal elections that provided the first major vote test of Premier Amintore Fanfani's "turn to the left."

Fanfani had appealed for victory as an endorsement of his center-left national government formed three months ago. But final results from the 34 largest cities and towns in the election—representing 2,467,099 of the total 3 million votes cast—gave the four allied parties 49.3 per cent of the vote.

Kennedy, Business Chiefs Study U.S. Gold Outflow

Further Study Planned on Reduction of National Balance of Payments Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group press secretary Pierre Salinger of top ranking businessmen said they had agreed to make agreed to examine the Kennedy administration's steps to halt the balance of payments deficit and appeal Monday in a Yale University commencement speech for to stop the resulting flow of U.S. gold abroad.

The businessmen, headed by U.S. Steel Corp. Chairman Roger M. Blough, conferred with President Kennedy for an hour Monday night. Afterward, White House

Salinger said of the meeting: "The President feels that this kind of cooperation is most important and is the kind of cooperation that can be most helpful between business and the government."

In his speech earlier in the day Kennedy had declared: "The solid ground of mutual confidence is the necessary partnership of government with all sectors of our society in the steady quest for economic progress."

The President also said those who blame his administration for the sharp decline in stock prices are raising a false issue. Two of his most frequent Republican critics—Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and House Minority Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana—hammered away again Monday on the subject of the economy at a news conference.

Dirksen's Comment "It has become clear that the Kennedy administration has got America moving again—but in the wrong direction," Dirksen said. "The stock market's crash has supplied the evidence."

Halleck said of Kennedy's proposal to cut income taxes next year: "Evidently this means that Mr. Kennedy intends to cut taxes and spend at the same time. We say the two are contradictory so far as promoting confidence is concerned and can only produce intolerable deficits that will further depress the economy."

Halleck said Republicans do favor an overhaul of the tax system to promote economic growth but "the first approach to real savings in tax dollars must be a serious effort to control federal spending."

Snooper Patrol Grows

Fourth Russian Spy Vessel in Test Zone

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has sent a fourth ship communications in the Pacific, bristling with scientific instruments to spy on U.S. nuclear tests in the Pacific.

This addition to the Russian snooper patrol was disclosed today as the United States prepared for a second try at firing a nuclear device at a high altitude over Johnston Island.

First Effort Failure Informed sources indicated the shot—biggest of the U.S. test series—is likely late this week. The Federal Aviation Agency said Monday the shot more than 500 miles over the Johnston Island test area is expected to blot out instantly all high frequency radio communications in the Pacific. Some of the disruption will last 32 hours or longer, the FAA said.

The first high-altitude test shot ended disastrously June 4 when a Thor missile carrying the warhead aloft was purposely destroyed after the rocket tracking system developed trouble.

The presence of three Soviet instrument ships within 10 to 15 miles of the Pacific test area was announced by the Defense Department 18 days ago. It said they were obviously on a large-scale military intelligence collection mission.

It appeared the Soviet research ships may have collected data from Sunday's plane-dropped nuclear device which exploded over Christmas Island and released the equivalent of from one to several million tons of TNT. This was the 17th—and one of the biggest—announced shots in the current U.S. test series.

Ship Identified The new Soviet ship was identified as the A. I. Voyevkov, a sister ship of the Shokalskiy, the largest of the three research vessels which took up stations during May.

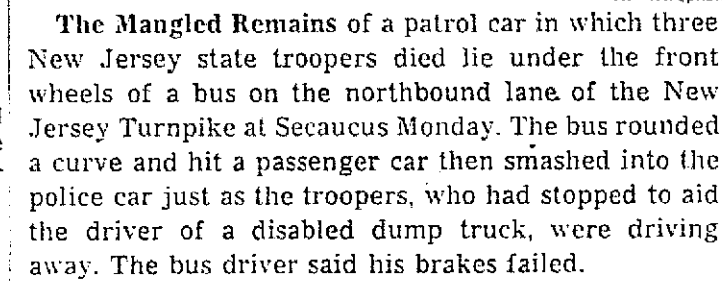

This means the Voyevkov displaces about 3,600 tons and is equipped with extensive scientific instrumentation.

Although the Pentagon gave no details, it was obvious the Navy has been keeping a watchful eye on the Soviet snooper fleet. Because the Russians are in international waters, there is nothing this country can do to shoo them away.

Since the Pentagon knows the name of the fourth vessel, it was apparent that American patrol UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey last week.

Mazey replied today, approving resumption of negotiations, but suggesting either June 28 or 29 as the meeting date and proposing sessions be held at the Sheboygan YMCA. Mazey said the UAW's international executive board has a 18-day meeting scheduled June 18-19.

The Mangled Remains of a patrol car in which three New Jersey state troopers died lie under the front wheels of a bus on the northbound lane of the New Jersey Turnpike at Secaucus Monday. The bus rounded a curve and hit a passenger car then smashed into the police car just as the troopers, who had stopped to aid the driver of a disabled dump truck, were driving away. The bus driver said his brakes failed.

Felons Used Raft? 3 Escape Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three of the island to the water's edge, Dolison said. Dolison identified the three men as John W. Anglin, 32, and Clarence Anglin, 28, both of Montgomery, Ala., and Ferris A. Morris, 35, of New Orleans.

Since Alcatraz became a federal prison in 1934 escape has been attempted previously by 20 convicts. Five were shot. Twelve were recaptured.

Nigeria Wants More Peace Corps Workers WASHINGTON (AP)—The top men of Nigeria's Parliament have thanked the United States for sending Peace Corps volunteers to their African nation—and asked for more.

Dennis Chuhade Osadebay, president of the Nigerian Senate, and Speaker of the House Ibrahim Jalo Waziri spoke at an African-American Institute Banquet Monday night.

He said they had cut away a portion of the back of their cells with a sharpened spoon. They gained access to a utility pipe tunnel through which they climbed to the roof of the cell block. They removed bars protecting a skylight.

From the roof they dropped thin pipes to the ground. Then they made their way to the rear

UAW Agrees to Negotiate With Kohler Company

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union accepted today a proposal by the Kohler Co. that they resume negotiations, but the union suggested both a different date and meeting place than that proposed by the company.

Kohler and the UAW last met some five years ago. The union went on strike against the Wisconsin plumbingware firm April 5, 1954, and then fought to the Supreme Court and won an unfair labor practices case against it.

Kohler suggested resumption of negotiations on June 19 at a Sheboygan motel in a letter to UAW Secretary-Treasurer Emil Mazey last week.

Mazey replied today, approving resumption of negotiations, but suggesting either June 28 or 29 as the meeting date and proposing sessions be held at the Sheboygan YMCA. Mazey said the UAW's international executive board has a 18-day meeting scheduled June 18-19.

Sheboygan Man Dies in Crash

Two Trucks Collide At Intersection of State 114, U. S. 10

A two-truck collision at the intersection of U.S. 10 and State 114 in Calumet County about 12:15 p.m. today took the life of Reuben Mueller, 65, Sheboygan.

Mueller was driving a truck west on State 114 when he collided with a gravel truck driven by Gerald Mitchell, 26, 927½ W. Lorain St., Appleton.

Mitchell said he was turning left onto U.S. 10 when the accident occurred. He was uninjured. Mitchell's truck drove into the left side of the small pickup truck driven by Mueller, crushing him. The men were alone.

Mueller was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital by Larry's Ambulance, Calumet County Coroner LeRoy Hughes said Mueller had a basal skull fracture and crushed chest and was dead on arrival at the hospital.

The death raised Wisconsin's 1962 highway traffic toll to 345, one more than on this day a year ago.

Two Dane County residents died in other accidents. Mrs. Willis Martinson, 24, of Mt. Horeb, was killed Monday night when her automobile and a semi-trailer cattle truck collided on Highway 18 near Mt. Horeb.

The truck driver, Douglas Nordorf, 20, Platteville, was taken to a Madison hospital.

Howard Lynch Jr., 19, Madison, was killed Monday night when a car in which he was riding with three other youths left a curve on Dane County Trunk PD and hit a utility pole near Verona. Three other occupants of the car were hospitalized.

The state's 1962 traffic death toll reached 345, one more than on this date a year ago.

Kathy Jo Daw, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Daw of Route 2, Markesan, was killed today when she was struck by a truck on a Markesan street which she was crossing after alighting from her mother's car. Kathy Jo was on her way to a vacation Bible school at Markesan Methodist Church.

Charges Dancers In Night Clubs Being Exploited

WASHINGTON (AP)—Pert and pretty Penny Singleton—Blondie of movie and television fame—bitterly accused paid officials of the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA) today of conniving with night club owners to degrade and exploit run-of-the-mine exotic dancers and other entertainers.

Miss Singleton, slim in a white-figured dress and wearing a perky straw hat, told Senate investigators of her own battles for reform in the AFL-CIO union.

The veteran actress charged that lesser lights of the entertainment world, many of them "strippers" and exotic dancers, are required to mingle with customers, hustle drinks, "or worse," as she put it, in order to get and hold a job in many night clubs in big towns.

She called this a blatant violation of the union's rules.

Nelson Has Selling Job

Lake Superior Tract Offered to U. S. For National Recreation Purposes

ASHLAND (AP)—A northern Wisconsin wilderness tract fringed by the white sand shore of wind-tossed Lake Superior was visited Monday by state officials who want the federal government to preserve it as a national recreation area.

The unblemished natural beauty of the land—as viewed in chartered plane and boat tours—was the strongest testimony in support of the appeal.

Nelson Leads Project But Gov. Gaylord Nelson, who headed the visiting party, personally undertook the job of selling the proposal to Edwin Crafts, habit of the recreation area division of the Department of Interior.

Crafts said he was "very impressed" by the area but he wouldn't speculate on the possibility that the federal government would accept the offer.

The national recreation area proposed would encompass 20,000 acres of the Bad River Indian Reservation just east of Ashland, and the 22 Apostle Islands lying off Lake Superior's southern shore. The islands were added to the area involved to make it Crafts described as "a more inviting package."

Should the spot become a national recreation area, federal funds would be available to buy private lands now dotting it. There would be federal money as well to develop the area's potential as a tourist attraction and enhance it as a natural habitat for wildlife and waterfowl.

Reds Say Captive GI Denounces 'Criminal Maneuvers' by U. S.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Vietnamese Communists have broadcast what they claimed to be a captive American soldier's statement denouncing "the criminal maneuvers of U.S. imperialism" in South Viet Nam.

The soldier was identified as Spec. 4 George F. Fryett Jr., 26, whose parents live in California. He is the only U.S. serviceman listed as missing among the 6,500 U.S. troops stationed in South Viet Nam to help President Ngo Dinh Diem's government fight the Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Fryett, a clerk in the U.S. Military Assistance and Advisory Group in Saigon, disappeared last Dec. 24. He reportedly went by bicycle to a village in Bien Hoa Province, north of Saigon, and apparently was captured by the Viet Cong.

U.S. Garrison Will Remain in Thailand

Troops Retained as Protection Against Red Infiltration Despite Agreement by Laotian Princes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The threat of Red infiltration from United States will keep military neighboring North Viet Nam. forces in Thailand for the time being despite the agreement of neighboring Laos' three political princes to form a coalition government.

High U.S. officials, in disclosing this today, said they believe the threat of a Communist-dominated Laos has been averted, at least for the present.

However, the new Laotian government is expected to be too weak at the outset to halt the

Final Planks In Democratic Platform Given

College Faculty Salary Increases One of Three Points

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A committee charged with drafting a platform for consideration by delegates at the state Democratic convention at Sheboygan June 22-23 had released the final three planks in its proposal.

The committee said at Madison Monday that the planks call for substantial salary increases for University of Wisconsin and state college teachers, revision of federal regulations to permit distribution of surplus food to nonprofit convalescent homes, and support of equal employment and educational opportunities for Indians.

Philip G. Kuehn, endorsed by Wisconsin Republicans for the party nomination for governor, reiterated Monday that he favors a general three per cent sales tax.

Exemption Credit

Kuehn said at a Madison news conference that his plan of taxation would provide no exemptions on any purchases and services. His program, however, would provide an exemption credit of $400 per person. Present income tax rates would not be changed.

"If I am nominated this would commit my party to a general sales tax," he said.

Kuehn said he had no issue with Wilbur Runk of Sun Prairie, who also seeks the GOP nomination. He pointed out, however, that he disagrees with Runk on education. Kuehn said that he favors expansion of present university and college facilities instead of creation of a junior college system which Runk has proposed.

Gift From Estes May Cause Congressman's Removal From Ballot

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge George M. Kelton agreed Monday to hear a motion to remove the name of Rep. J. T. Rutherford, D-Tex., from the November general election ballot.

Robert Frias, whom Rutherford defeated in the May 5 Democratic primary election, presented the motion, claiming Rutherford forfeited his right to a place on the ballot because he was late in reporting a $1,500 campaign contribution from West Texas promoter Billie Sol Estes. Rutherford reported the gift with the secretary of state.

Rutherford has said he was not aware of the Estes donation until he checked his records.

Three Filipino Youths Killed in Knife Fight

Diefenbaker Warns Against Canadian Price Increases

CHICAGO Daily News Service

OTTAWA, Ontario — Prime Minister John Diefenbaker is threatening drastic action against business firms that increase prices.

Although the circumstances are different, his supporters are busy comparing his attitude to that of President Kennedy in the face of the recent boost in U.S. steel prices.

The Canadian price situation stems from devaluation of the Canadian dollar, not from wage increases. Threatened, though not actually in effect, are increases of about one cent per gallon gasoline and one to two cents per loaf on bread.

Dollar devaluation resulted in higher prices for crude oil and wheat, both of which are governed by world markets. Some oil companies say the price of gasoline has to go up. Most baking companies say the price of bread must go up.

Increases in either or both of these commodities will lend point to criticism of Diefenbaker's handling of Canada's financial affairs. Such criticism is hard to take in the middle of an election campaign.

Says the prime minister, "I reserve notice that if this kind of thing is going on there will be action as effective as it is drastic."

Rep. Charles Halleck, Ind., and Sen. Everett Dirksen, Ill., right, leaders of the minority in the House and Senate, meet with newsmen Monday to give the GOP views on the Kennedy administration's proposed tax cut, the rollback of steel prices and the stock market plunge. Dirksen said many experts believe the steel price increase rollback triggered the $75 billion plunge in stocks.

'Inmates Running Asylum'

Star System Blamed For Shutdown of Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood's star system came in for sharp criticism today following 20th Century-Fox's decision to give up on "Something's Got to Give."

Executive Vice President Peter Levathes announced cancellation of the film Monday night. The development was preceded by the sacking of Marilyn Monroe on Friday and co-star Dean Martin's subsequent refusal to work without her.

Levathes was terse in his announcement, saying only that the move was reluctantly made.

But the boss of another studio commented: "The star system has got way out of hand. We've let the inmates run the asylum and they've practically destroyed it."

Crew Wants Ad

Members of the crew assigned to the Monroe-Martin vehicle said they hoped to run an ad in the trade papers headed: "Thanks, Dean and Marilyn, for putting us out of work."

Miss Monroe was fired for absenteeism. The studio said she showed up only five working days in seven weeks of shooting. The star blamed illness for her absences. On film, however, was her much-publicized nude bathing scene.

All told, 20th Century-Fox lost $2 million worth of film by scrapping the picture.

Marilyn Replaced

But one studio source summed it up this way: "If we had continued at the rate we were going with Marilyn, we would have had an American 'Cleopatra.' It's better to shut down and lose $2 million than keep on and maybe lose $10 million or $12 million."

"There was nothing we could do but scuttle it."

Unions Differ On Who Will Usher at Circus

DETROIT (AP) — A labor meeting was scheduled today to determine who will go to the circus—and get paid for it.

The Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus paraded Monday to announce its opening today.

A less lively parade around Cobo Convention Arena, where the circus opens, was staged by pickets who belong to the Building Service Employees Union (AFB-CIO).

The picketers thought they, rather than members of the International Alliance of Theatrical and State Employees Union (AFL-CIO), should have been hired as ushers during the circus run.

The meeting today at the Detroit Building Trades Council was called to try to settle the argument.

Rockefeller Appears To Be Certain GOP Presidential Candidate

Romney, Scranton, Goldwater, Nixon Also Being Considered

BY JACK BELL

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The quiet assumption among most Republicans attending national committee meetings here appears to be that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York will be their 1964 presidential nominee.

Behind all the hoopla of optimistic declarations that their party is going to win control of the House and add several governorships in the November election, there is soft-pedaled hotel room talk about the choice of the next man to oppose President Kennedy.

In this talk there is a strong disagreement on whether former Vice President Richard M. Nixon can or can't be counted out of the 1964 running if he wins the governorship of California.

Scranton Mentioned

There is a lively interest in what will happen if George Romney wins the governorship of Michigan. There is talk that William Scranton would make an attractive presidential candidate if he can take over the statehouse in Pennsylvania.

There is solid support for the idea that Sen. Barry Goldwater, Arizona, deserves at least second place on the 1964 ticket as spokesman for the party's conservatives.

All of this seems to shake down to the belief that, at this stage, Rockefeller is the man most likely to arrive at the top of the ticket—providing he does not stumble over some now unforeseen obstacles in his bid for reelection with a resounding majority.

In these circumstances National Committeeman George L. Hinman of New York is playing it cool. Hinman says—and this is confirmed by other key committee members—that he is asking no commitments for his candidate.

Individual States

"All I am doing is trying to find out what the situation is in individual states," he said. "We want to know more about what is going on than we did in 1959."

Rockefeller made an abortive bid to oppose Nixon for the 1960 nomination but quit late in 1959 when he found the GOP cards were stacked for Nixon.

If Rockefeller wins re-election—and Hinman thinks he will by a big margin—things will be different in 1963. Republicans then are likely to see a duplicate of the drive Sen. John F. Kennedy put on for the Democratic nomination in 1958 and 1959. This went down to the grass roots, state-by-state or House and add several governorships in the November election.

In any such endeavor, Rockefeller has several advantages over possible opponents. Contributors probably will be reluctant to put their money on the line to finance pre-convention expenditures for any Republican hopeful in view of the prevailing opinion that Kennedy is likely to get a second term. Rockefeller doesn't have to go outside his own purse to finance such a campaign.

Goldberg Aims His Animosity At Punching Bag

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a one-two attack on a punching bag, a tug at some pulley weights and a spin on an exercise bicycle, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg has inaugurated a new exercise room for his department's employees.

"We're going to be the most physically fit department in this administration," Goldberg said Monday.

"I want to counter the canard that I am not in sympathy with the President's physical fitness program," he said with a smile. "When your frustrations begin to get the best of you, working over the punching bag is great medicine."

Department employees contributed money to pay for the equipment.

Lawrence Degree to Unconventional Man

BY MARION DREW
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — A man with very definite "unconventional" opinions is Saul Steinberg, New York artist, who received an honorary degree from Lawrence College at commencement exercises Sunday.

Born in Rumania, Steinberg received a doctorate in architecture at the University of Milan. "Being an architect is difficult and immoral," Steinberg remarked, "An architect should not build houses for people. He should plan cities, monuments and temples."

After two years he gave up this field and came to New York, where he already was known for his drawings in the New Yorker, Harper's Bazaar and Life magazines.

He was drafted by the navy and sent to China where he remained for three years. "I still don't know what I was supposed to be doing there," he said casually.

"I'm Unconventional"

Steinberg does not believe in studying art "officially." "Going to established institutions makes an artist into a conventional man. I am very unconventional."

"I do not need machinery or equipment or a studio for my work," Steinberg remarked, "Pen and ink or charcoal and paper are all I need. I work in comfort and usually work every day."

"I have designed wall paper, but not any more. I am still getting royalties from it. I do Christmas cards. My cartoons for the New Yorker are always accepted. Together we arrive at a price."

Author and Illustrator

He has designed textiles, files, garden statuary and needlepoint as well as a ballet set. He did the murals for the American Pavilion at the Brussels World's Fair. His books include "All in a Line," "The Art of Living," "The Passport," "Labyrinth" and "Steinberg's America." He also illustrated S. N. Belman's biography of the art dealer Duveen.

He enjoys billiards and the movies but not the theater. "The theater is mediocre. People here go to the theater to be seen, not to see anything. The movies are better—the theater is not pure. It is based on hardship and a desire to please. The audience acts as though it is enjoying itself even when it cannot hear what is going on on the stage. They cannot get up and walk out, but you go to the movies alone, and when you stop enjoying it you can walk out. The audience in a theater is immoral—they do not protest when they don't enjoy it. It is their duty to protest!"

However, Steinberg said, "I like to go to concerts, because music is beautiful to watch and to hear. Concerts are much better than recorded music."

Protests Questions

Steinberg protested that only conventional questions were asked during the interview so he could not answer most of them because he was so unconventional himself.

When asked if he was looking forward to receiving his degree he said, "I'm curious about the whole process."

While in Neenah, the artist was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Leech, 825 E. Forest Ave.

Man Put on Probation for Taking Funds

SHAWANO — Edwin H. Rammel, former Shawano County jailer, was placed on three years probation by Circuit Judge Andrew Parnell after entering a plea of guilty to charges of appropriating public funds. Probation followed a pre-sentence investigation by the State Department of Public Welfare.

Judge Parnell had first sentenced Rammel to three years at Waupun but stayed the sentence and placed the former jailer on probation for that period.

Rammel has admitted taking less than $2,500 over a period of years. An audit by Shawano County Board committees determined the missing amount at $2,584.

Another audit by a bonding company has been made and the report was expected to be made at this morning's meeting of the county board.

The amount of restitution will be determined after this report is made.

The Ernst Mahlers, left, were hosts at their Neenah home to Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Wriston, right, when the son of Henry B. Wriston returned to Lawrence College campus this weekend to receive an honorary degree. The senior Wriston was president of Lawrence from 1925 to 1937. His son is now executive vice president of a New York City bank. Mahler represented him for his degree during the commencement ceremony Sunday.

New York Banker Here to Receive Honorary Degree, Visits Old Home

Walter Wriston returned to Appleton this weekend for the first time since he left in 1937 with his Appleton High School diploma, freshly received, in his hand.

His return was to receive Sunday an honorary doctor's degree from Lawrence College where he spent his boyhood.

Now executive vice president in charge of the overseas division of First National City Bank of New York, one of the country's largest financial institutions, Wriston lived in the shadow of the campus when his father, Henry M. Wriston, served as the eighth president of the college.

Wriston recalled that he was six years old when he came to Appleton and 17 years old when he left, immediately after his graduation.

He drove through the Lawrence College campus in the afternoon — his first view of it since he left 25 years ago. "It's like coming home again," he said. "Quite a few of the buildings he remembered well — but there are so many new and fine buildings and changes," he said.

Although this was his first visit since his high school days, and the first time his daughter has seen the Fox River Valley, the visit was a short one. He returned by plane early Monday to New York City.

Wriston declined to comment on the world financial and trade problems, although he is a member of various financial and foreign trade organizations and has overseas finance as his specialty.

Wriston, along with his wife and 14-year-old daughter, Catherine, father left in the early part of 1937 to be president of Brown University at Providence and he stayed to finish high school.

Active in School

High school then was in the building now serving as Appleton's City Hall. The Edison school was his elementary school.

Back when he was in school, the new high school was not even a thought, Wriston recalled. As for what high school activities he participated in, he replied that he got mixed up in many of them.

"I drove past my old home Saturday afternoon," he commented. "Now it is the college admissions office."

Summer Drama Class Reports Few Openings

KAUKAUNA—A limited number of openings remain in the creative drama class to be offered by the recreation department this summer and registrations are being accepted at the recreation office, according to Miss Marguerite Van Hulst, instructor.

Students enrolled last year are to make this fact known when registering since they will be placed in an advanced class. To be eligible, youngsters are to be between 10 and 14 years old. Instruction will be given in puppetry, pantomime, acting and play presentation.

Classes will be conducted in the basement of the municipal building beginning June 18.

Fox Cities Students Take School Offices

Four Fox Cities area students have been elected officers of or initiated into organizations at Carroll College, Waukesha.

Thomas Felts, route 3, Shawano, was elected president of Mary's High School of Menasha. The Delta Theta chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national business administration fraternity, Carl Ziem, 732 Oak St., Neenah, was initiated into membership in the chapter.

Lynn Madden, 125 N. Drew St., has been chosen social chairman of Gamma Theta Upsilon, national geography fraternity.

Kay Thompson, 637 Elm St., Neenah, has been initiated as an active member of Phi chapter of Beta Beta Beta, national biological society.

Tense Nerves Block Bowels

New tonic-tablet laxative acts on colonic muscles... de-constipates overnight.

The muscular wall of your colon contains nerves known to medicine as Auerbach's Plexus. In regular people, these nerves tell the colon muscles to propel and expel waste from the body. But tense nerves or emotional upset can block your normal bowel habits. Your colon muscle impulses are no longer strong enough to eliminate waste—which dries and shrinks, further aggravating the condition.

Relief, doctors say, lies in the non-irritating, de-constipating principle of a new tonic-tablet called COLONAL. Of all leading laxatives, only COLONAL.

Survey at Lawrence

College Students Use Summer for Studying

The days when college students spent their summers jerking sodas in the old home town are over, a look at the vacation-time activities of Lawrence students reveals.

Many are using their vacation times for independent activities definitely oriented to their winter-time studies.

Three Lawrentians have been given grants from the Social Science Research Council. Anthony Carter, Champaign, Ill., will undertake a functional analysis of market economic systems in primitive societies, working in the libraries of the Universities of Chicago and Illinois and Northwestern University. Eugene Gaer, Milwaukee, will study the religious foundations of government in colonial Massachusetts Bay, working in the public libraries in his home city, at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Chicago.

James Williamsen, DePere, will study Kurt Lewin's psychological system with respect to its modes of expression and representation. He will use several midwestern university libraries.

Field Studies

Six Lawrence students will take part in a summer program of field study in biology and geology conducted on Basswood Lake in the Superior National Forest north of Ely, Minn. They are Jean von Bernuth, Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.; Bronson Hall, Highland Park, Ill.; Clyde Davis, Milwaukee; Richard King, LaGrange, Ill.; Loring Lawrence, Sudbury, Mass.; and William Prange, 750 Appleton St., Menasha. Dr. William Read of the Lawrence geology department will be on the staff of the field station.

Two student scientists have won National Science Foundation grants for summer study: Robert West, 214 S. Rankin St., will assist doctoral candidates at the University of Wyoming; and Peter Belzer, Delevan, will be at the University of Georgia's Marine Institute at Sapelo Island.

Five more student scientists have secured research assistantships: Mary Restifo, Shaker Heights, Ohio, and Marjorie Middleton, Kailua, Hawaii, will work under professors at Marquette University; Robert Dickens, Manitowoc, will assist Lawrence biologist Roger Trumbore and Bradner Courson on their moss research in the science hall greenhouse, under a grant from the Institute of Paper Chemistry's Pioneering Research program; and James Jordan, Glen Ellyn, Ill., and Bronson Hall, Highland Park, Ill., will assist Lawrence biologist Sumner Richman in his National Science Foundation research of marine life in Lake Winnebago.

On European Tour

Nine Lawrence coeds will take part in a European tour led by Dorrit Friedlander of the language department: Judith Bezan, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Karen Borchardt, Wauwatosa; Sue

Two Injured When Car Hits Bridge

WAUPACA — Two people were injured about 1:30 a. m. Sunday on U. S. 10 in Fremont when the car they rode in struck the bridge over the Wolf River.

Robert J. Bojarski, 24, 835 DePere St., Menasha, suffered a cut tongue and bruises to the head, and Kenneth A. Konek, 22, 644 Racine St., Menasha, suffered severe bruises to the face.

County police sergeant Loran Frazier, said the car was going east on U. S. 10 when the car struck the corner of the bridge.

Two cars were damaged about 2:10 a. m. Sunday on State 22 near Bear Lake. Mrs. Mary R. Thoe, route 2, Iola, was driving south and attempting to turn right onto Bear Lake Road, police said.

Kurt M. Kaminski, 20, route 2, Weyauwega, who was driving behind the Thoe car, attempted to squeeze past the Thoe car on the right side and sideswiped the Thoe car police said. Damages totaled $425.

Gary L. Skinner, 22, 1619 E. Pauline St., Appleton, failed to negotiate "Dead Man's Curve" on Monday, Milwaukee, will engage State 22 west of Waupaca about 1 p. m. Sunday. Skinner's car, in social work, Miss Carpenter will work with Indian children at going east, swerved toward the Presbyterian mission in Ari-est ditch and crossed over to the west ditch, where it rolled over, county policeman William Mork reported.

New York Artist Saul Steinberg, a most "unconventional" man, enjoys a laugh during an interview at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Leech, Neenah, where he was a guest this past weekend. Steinberg was in the Fox Valley to receive an honorary degree from Lawrence College at its commencement exercise Sunday.

Lawrence College Teachers Have Articles Published

Five Lawrence College faculty members recently have authored articles for scholarly magazines.

Dr. J. Bruce Brackenridge, physics, has written "Transverse Oscillations of a Liquid Jet," which appeared in the Journal of the Acoustical Society of America.

Historian Dr. William A. Chaney has written two: "Aethelbert's Code and the King's Number," a study of the significance of the "royal number" nine in Germanic law codes and folk lore, which appeared in the April issue of the American Journal of Legal History; and "A Louisiana Planter in the Gold Rush" in the spring issue of Louisiana History. The latter consisted of editing, introducing notes for a letter found in the archives of a family plantation written by Chaney's great-grandfather in the California Gold Rush to Chaney's grandfather, then a freshman at Centenary College, Louisiana.

Creating Artificial Lakes

There are some critics of Gov. Nelson's expanded recreational resources program who have suggested without much subtlety that it has some "pork barrel" aspects. It is true that when the proposition was put before the legislature it carefully delineated scores of projects and improvements in so many localities that a skeptic might conclude that its authors had in mind the logistics of legislative roll calls as well as the goal of scenic protection and wildlife management for the state as a whole.

These are the pragmatic aspects of statehouse politics, and it seemed pretty clear at the time that this needed legislation probably could not have been put on the books without such practical considerations.

What concerns some persons relates to something else. A state agency the other day put out an announcement saying in effect that it would receive applications for projects in a category of this legislation that has had little public attention — that which ostensibly commits the state to the creation of artificial lakes in the districts that have not been naturally endowed with them.

Here the administering officials, it seems to us, ought to put up some "go slow" signs.

Creating a lake of any size is an inordinately costly affair, as a few clumsy experiments in southwestern Wisconsin have shown during the last decade. Any substantial lake-making program will divert so much of this new conservation program money as inevitably to sidetrack worthy enterprises that will have a state-wide importance and usefulness, in contrast to the purely neighborhood values of the excavations and impoundments in the lakeless unglaciated sections of the far western counties.

It may be that some artificial lake projects will fit in economically with watershed protection and general soil conservation works authorized or needed otherwise. They may be legitimate incidents of more-basic conservation work and the agricultural interest as well as the recreational interest. To spend money raised on a state-wide basis, however, for the creation of necessarily small lake acreages in localities where they will have only local use strikes us as uneconomical and unwise in relation to the many other purposes that will have a general value. Moreover, once a lake program in the far western section is begun, how can the state officials resist the inevitable demands of other sections that want more recreational water? Here is a temptation for boondoggling that we hope the state committee in charge of the new recreational development program will have the courage and the intelligence to resist.

The Wilderness Is Our Heritage

Ever since President Theodore Roosevelt made a big campaign about maintaining our natural resources and the natural beauty of the wilderness, governmental units have set aside recreational areas for the public. There is just as much controversy over plans today as there was when President Teddy added a million and a half acres of land to the federal park system.

The controversies usually are valid and usually point up the differences between private and public interests. Private camp and cottage owners resent the turning over of beaches to public use because of "tin can tourists", the development of honky tonk resorts and the invasion of their quiet. Industries oppose the taking of land and water for purely recreational use. Sheep and cattle owners want grazing rights. State governments see the loss of industrial development and a wider tax base.

Furthermore, there are controversies among those who want to set aside more recreational areas. On the one hand are those who emphasize fishing, game, motor boating and cable car rides; on the other are the hikers who want the wilderness as God made it, or nearly so, with little to bother the animals and birds.

The Outdoor Recreation Commission made a survey of what Americans do for recreation but hasn't solved the arguments. Some 90 per cent take part in outdoor activities, 38 per cent fish, 19 per cent hike, 17 per cent hunt, 15 per cent camp, 7 per cent ride horseback. Other

A Horse Shoe Nail

There have been a couple of imaginative novels written about the status of the United States or what would have been left of it if the Confederate States of America had won the Civil War. In this anniversary month of D-Day, we always can speculate as to what would have happened if the invasion force had failed in its Normandy landings.

The weather was against the landings. Our intelligence reports, which indicated that Germany really expected an attack further north at Calais, might have been erroneous. The descriptions of the German defenses at Omaha and Utah Beaches could have been faulty. And we know now that many of the paratroopers were blown off course and that some of the shells from the naval bombardment went wide because of fear of hitting our own troops in the overcast.

Certainly today we believe that another attack would have been launched and that it eventually would have been successful. The Nazi regime was rotting from within and German troops were being cut to pieces on the Russian front. Victory ultimately would have been ours in any case.

But we can look back now upon an event of which there is no question and realize how quickly the decision to go had to be made and how hair-thin were the pros and the cons. We have only to read a communique written by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower on the fifth of June but never issued to recognize how tenuous was the invasion.

"Our landings in the Cherbourg-Havre area have failed to gain a satisfactory foothold and I have withdrawn the troops. My decision to attack at this time and place was based upon the best information available."

Of such decisions are the tides of history determined.

Disagree on Rockefeller
Rep. Laird Finds GOP
Not United on Policy

BY WILLIAM MCGAFFIN
Chicago Daily News Service
WASHINGTON — Republicans in Congress have brought out a campaign document that they hope will help them get results in this autumn's Congressional election.

It is called a "Declaration of Republican Principle and Policy."

An insight into some of the problems connected with the writing of such a paper has just been provided by Rep. Melvin R. Laird (R-Wis.). He is the chairman of the 12-member committee charged with producing it.

The problems arose because of the committee's desire to come up with a document that all Republicans in the Senate and House could support.

This goal was achieved only by resorting to some pretty

They Remember Cuba

They were particularly critical, for instance, of President Kennedy's handling of the Cuban situation.

"Within the last 18 months a communist military base has been established 90 miles from the coast of Florida," they observed. "The tragic timidity of those who withheld needed support from the Cuban patriots dispatched to free their country permitted the Communists to achieve their greatest triumph in a decade. We should never again tolerate such a failure."

The Republicans ran into problems, however, when they began considering the positive side of some of the issues they raised.

What should be done about Cuba now, for instance?

In reply to this question, which is not answered specifically anywhere in the campaign document, Rep. Laird hedged. He was aware of "many proposals," he said, but he could not "violate confidences" by talking to the press about them.

Another weakness of the document is that while it has the

What Others are Saying
Sen. McCarthy Censure Based On 'Criminal Conduct of Enemies'

From The Chicago Tribune

Edward Bennett Williams, the lawyer who defended the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy when his conduct was "condemned" by the Senate in December, 1954, discusses that celebrated case in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Williams' considered conclusion is that Sen. McCarthy, whose enemies have always pictured him as injuring others, was himself the injured party.

"History," Williams writes, "must show in one of its more ironical paragraphs that Sen. McCarthy, whose name became an international by-word of ruthless inquiries, was himself the casualty of a congressional investigation which flouted the rules of fair play."

An action to "censure" McCarthy was originally brought in the Senate under a constitutional provision empowering the membership to "punish . . . members for disorderly conduct." At the beginning 46 charges of misconduct were filed against McCarthy. In preliminary hearings before a select committee, the 46 charges dwindled to two. And, before Senate voted condemnation, one of these two surviving charges was thrown out, to be replaced by a substitute charging that McCarthy had abused the select committee which considered the original charges.

The one surviving charge from the original list charged McCarthy with refusing to appear before the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections in 1952 and with abuse of its members. The subcommittee, under the chairmanship of Sen. Gillette, an Iowa Democrat, had before it a resolution calling for McCarthy's expulsion from the Senate.

Nothing we have seen in the current debate over extending rigid farm controls to almost all products of the farm is so effective an answer as a letter sent by Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Smith of Saranac, Mich., to President Kennedy. This is what they wrote:

"We will promptly send you a duly recorded quick claim deed to our 80-acre farm if the program calling for government control of farm production or anything like it is passed by Congress. Since the government is determined to run our farm, it's only reasonable that you should own it and pay the taxes and mortgage."

The proposed bill would base future production on past performance, with no chance to expand and improve a farm family's condition. The Smiths, and any other independent-minded farmers, want no part of it. Nor should fair-minded Congressmen saddle them with such un-American restraints.

writing to them was forwarded daily to the subcommittee. The 4th amendment, as interpreted by the Supreme court, forbids opening of mail as an unlawful search and seizure. Federal statutes make it a crime to delay the mail for any purpose. The subcommittee was itself guilty of using unlawful methods in an attempt to get dirt on the senator, the intention being, as Williams says, "to get McCarthy."

"When the McCarthy mail cover came to light," Williams writes, "the Senate appointed a special committee to investigate. The committee found that the charge was completely true. . . . The committee unanimously agreed to refer the matter to the

Both Papers Against College Bill

100 Years Ago

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 14, 1862, and the Appleton Motor for June 12, 1862.

Our efficient young Sen. T. R. Hudd has taken the lead in the Wisconsin Senate by introducing resolutions to our Congressmen to oppose the passage of the Agricultural College Bill now pending in Congress.

It would operate in favor of the old settled Eastern States against the entire West. The bill proposes to give an amount of the public domain, equal to 30,000 acres, for each Senator and Representative in Congress for the purpose of establishing and sustaining agricultural colleges in the several States.

Sen. Hudd spoke briefly and earnestly in favor of his opposing resolutions, claiming that the passage of the Agricultural College Bill by Congress would do the West a great injustice. His resolutions stated that if passed, the bill will take a large amount of unsold government lands in Wisconsin from the operation of recently passed Homestead Act.

After discussion by the (state) Senate, the resolutions were adopted 21 to 8. The State press about unanimously endorsed these resolutions. The resolutions were adopted in the Assembly unanimously previously.

The protest of Wisconsin should be thundered in the ears of our Congressional delegation and prompt them, individually and collectively, to resent the sectional, grasping legislation dictated to Congress by the Eastern States. — Appleton Crescent.

This "bill of abominations" passed the U. S. Senate on June 10th by a vote of 32 to 7. On the very same day, the resolutions introduced into the State Senate by our member Mr. Hudd against the inquiry were passed by a vote of 21 to 8.

The game of the plunderers appears to be to hurry the steal through Congress before the people can get time to have their say in its condemnation. Else why this indecency of haste? — Appleton Motor

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The prizes in politics are great and victory is sweet. Necessarily the defeats are painfully disappointing and sometimes cruel ones, and no recent incident in Wisconsin affairs illustrates better than the astonishingly close run of Lt. Gov. Warren Knowles against Philip Kuehn for the Republican convention endorsement for the governorship.

By almost all of the usual rules of politics Warren Knowles in the ripe experience of more than two decades of ranking service at the state capitol was the natural candidate of his party for the highest office in state government this year.

But he lost the nomination of his party convention, which by his own terms was essential, and now for all practical purposes his career has probably ended. Why?

In part the reasons are those why the seemingly strong man who steps into the prize ring often loses the bout to the competitor who is in better physical trim, more skilled, more resourceful, and more determined.

Knowles was out-pointed, as the sports writers would put it, by the man who got into training earlier, who wanted the prize more fiercely, and who worked harder to get it.

HOW IT BEGAN

The lieutenant governor probably lost his campaign for the governorship this year when he didn't want to run for the party nomination two years ago, and firmly held to his refusal in spite of considerable pressure from important party people at the time.

Republicans in 1960 were more concerned than they ever let on about putting in the field a strong challenger to Gov. Nelson, who had survived his first term in remarkably good position.

The Rev. Clifford J. Pierson, pastor of Memorial Presbyterian Church, served as chairman of ministerial relations at the 101st annual meeting of the state organization of the church at Waukesha. Mrs. Edward Mielke, also of Appleton, represented the Presbyterian women from the area.

Li and Mrs. R. J. Schwarz and their children were spending a 30-day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Schwarz, 2012 Carver Road, Appleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haag were elected officers of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks and its auxiliary at the state convention in Madison. Mr. Haag was named state vice president and his wife secretary and treasurer of the auxiliary.

Diana Daun was elected president of the Chilton 4-H Club. Other officers included Sylvia McCarty, vice president; Beverly Jaeger, secretary, and Dorothy Everix, reporter.

Under the Capitol Dome
Why Warren Knowles
Lost GOP Nomination

tion. Knowles was the odds on natural at that time. He didn't want to run. Phil Kuehn was willing and although there were those who doubted his stature then, they were glad that he made himself available for a vigorous, respectable and responsible challenge that helped the party otherwise in that year.

Having had a taste of politics, and more important, having run well against Nelson, Kuehn made up his mind even as he knew he had lost that he wanted another try. Within weeks of the 1960 November election he was communicating with local party leaders, nailing down commitments. As long ago as 1961 he was on the stump. Knowles showed no more interest than he did two years ago.

It was fairly late in the year that the lieutenant governor decided that it was time to rise, or retire, and concluded that the logical role for him was the gubernatorial nomination this year. But the decision came late. Kuehn had collected so many pledges that he ran as the favorite. He had organized a campaign in such minute detail that he carried the convention in spite of the dangerous up-surge for Knowles.

HOW IT WAS

Knowles was stronger than he knew. But Kuehn knew, and acted accordingly. No detail was too small for his utterly determined campaign and the careful attention of the corps of energetic and utterly unsentimental young managers. Until the moment the roll call started the Kuehn agents were criss-crossing the hall, in the closest approach to a national nominating convention this state has ever seen. In the end it was so close that it became clear that Kuehn could win only on the first ballot. A second vote would have brought Knowles the votes he really had, but which he had lost because he didn't appear to be riding a winning bandwagon.

The lesson here is that politics is a cruel mistress. One of the best men in state politics has been retired from the scene if there is another lesson it is that Kuehn has shown a sense of the practical and the kind of determination to win that is rare in Republican politics, and that promises an unusually aggressive campaign for the September nomination and the November final election.

Rick Nelson Denies Report Of Engagement

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rick Nelson says the pearl-and-gold ring he gave Christine Harmon, 17, is a graduation gift, not an engagement ring—but friends say they wouldn't be surprised if an engagement follows.

Miss Harmon, daughter of sportscaster Tom Harmon and actress Elyse Knox, displayed the ring to other graduates at Marymount High School.

She and the 22-year-old teenage idol, son of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson, have been dating for two years.

Today's Etiquette

CONCERT TALKERS

What is the tactful way to handle this situation? My husband and I, both music lovers, took some friends to a concert and they talked through the entire performance. We couldn't rebuke guests, but felt terrible to think how they were disturbing the people around us.

Louise Davis Answers:

If there was an intermission during the concert when the audience left to chat in the foyer, perhaps you or your husband could have suggested a switch in the seating arrangement so that when you returned, your guests would have been separated. Then if either of them tried to talk, you and your husband could have turned deaf ears with no responses. Sometimes it helps when incessant talkers get glowering looks from those around them. A solution for the future would be to avoid inviting these people to any other concert and to be wary about going to a theater or movie with them.

When acknowledging a wedding invitation to which there is a request for a reply, what is the form where one spouse is accepting and the other spouse must decline?

BRIGHT IDEAS

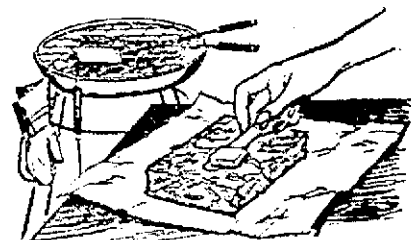

... from our Home Service Dept.

It seems likely that cookies were born in Ireland! Legend has it that Saint Columcille had difficulty in learning the Roman alphabet which St. Patrick had introduced to Ireland. So his mother baked cookies shaped like letters of the alphabet, and rewarded him with a cookie as he mastered letter after letter.

To discourage moths, add a handful of mothballs to the last rinse when laundering blankets prior to storage.

Today your dollar buys about twice the electricity it did 25 years ago. Your bill may be bigger, but that's because you're using electric service in so many more ways, for cooking, cleaning, cooling, and entertainment.

For your next porch party, put a block of frozen vegetables on a large square of foil. Spread vegetables with butter, season with salt and pepper. Then wrap tightly, leaving a little space for the steam to expand. Place package on grill to cook—about 14 minutes should do it. Turn a few times while cooking.

Use a shopping bag to empty wastebaskets into as you clean from room to room instead of carting each basket through the house. And wax venetian blinds with furniture wax after you've cleaned them—they'll be easier to dust.

Did you know that a handful of salt, added to a pan of boiling water, effectively kills grass or weeds growing between bricks or sections of a cement walk or patio? Simply pour the solution on the pesky plants.

No doubt about it, electricity does help take the work out of housework. High in value, low in price, electric service is a real bargain buy! And it's the same for the more than 140 million customers of investor-owned electric light and power companies across the country—this company is one of them.

A Problem Entranceway Is Made functional and attractive by the wise choice of decorative accents. The use of light furniture in brass, wrought iron and leather in the chair and table gives the illusion of space where little exists. The attractive wall covering will resist wear and damage and the unusual door admits light while adding to the foyer decor.

Designing Woman

Air of Space, Light Given to Entrance

Imaginative decoration for this small entranceway is created by the realistic solving of its problems. The problems are many—small space, cut into by a staircase, with a door on one wall and archways on two others. The area also lacks windows except for one high on the stair landing.

Doors became starring decoration as interior designer Haygood Lasseter, F.A.I.D., devised them to improve lighting and close one archway. He designed an unusual door to admit light from a partially covered patio, in glass framed and smartly patterned with wood in slender strips and blocks. To create privacy for the adjoining room glimpsed in the sketch, louvered doors were made screen-fold style in stately narrow panels which never intrude on floor space and outline the archway handsomely.

Take Every Advantage No opportunity is missed to make the purposeful decorative. The staircase is bounded by novel balusters which add repeats of the glass door's wood strips to heavier wood posts. Vinyl wall covering looks not at all the damage-resistant, easy-care blessing it is in a somewhat formal print design, which creates impressive atmosphere. Hardy vinyl flooring is appropriately travertine patterned and emphasizes rich rug coloring. Chair and table convenience is provided bulklessly, practically and smartly in brass, wrought iron and leather.

Doubling Is Costly

When you're counting tricks for a penalty double, pay some attention to a reliable opponent's bidding. If he indicates unusual distribution, don't count on all of your aces and kings to go through and win tricks.

West thought he could win two hearts, a diamond and a club. East could surely win a couple of tricks for his two bids. South would go down at least two tricks, and West would be able to retire on the profit from this hand.

West forgot that South had bid and rebid diamonds before showing the clubs. This indicated a 6-4 holding in those two suits. Moreover, South knew he was vulnerable and had heard his partner passing. There was every reason to believe that South had a good hand and excellent distribution.

A cautious West would not double four diamonds, let alone three. And, in fact, South made four diamonds by careful play.

Ruffs First Spade

South ruffed the first spade, cashed the ace of clubs, and ruffed a club in dummy. He got back by ruffing another spade and ruffed another club in dummy. He next ruffed a spade with the ace of trumps and ruffed his last club with dummy's jack of diamonds.

At this stage South was sure to win nine tricks. He continued by ruffing another spade, reducing to two trumps and three hearts. West refused to over-ruff, hoping South would run out of trumps.

South next led the queen of diamonds to West's king. West got out with a trump to South's ten. South then led a heart, and West had to yield a heart trick to dummy's ten or South's king.

If West had passed three diamonds, South would have scored only 60 points. The double gave South 120 points (game) below the line, a rubber bonus of 700 points. 50 points for making the doubled contract and 200 points for the overtrick—a total of 1,070 points. The double was not a startling success.

Kuehn Backs General Sales Tax, $400 Income Exemption

Denounces Reynolds Tax Plan. As 'Incredible, Irresponsible'

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Philip Kuehn, Republican candidate for governor, has flatly endorsed a general sales tax with a $400 per person annual state income tax exemption. It is the only fair and responsible measure for financing increased costs of state and local government that has a chance of providing some relief of property taxes and a stabilization of the state's comparatively high rate of income taxes, he says.

Kuehn chose a news conference here Monday to make his position on the central issue of the election campaigns of the state clear, and to denounce the position of his prospective Democratic opponent, Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds, as "incredible and irresponsible."

Reynolds is campaigning with a pledge to raise income taxes, if elected and to repeal the selective sales tax of 1961 which resulted from a compromise between Democratic Gov. Nelson and the Republican legislature after a threatened state finance stalemate.

Conservative Spending
Kuehn also pledged a conservative line on spending, in the event of his election, and said that the total tax load on the people of Wisconsin will be less under an administration led by him than if Reynolds is elected.

"We're not going to run for cover, we're going to be responsible candidates," he said of the convention endorsed team chosen at the Republican state convention two weeks ago.

He said Reynolds is repudiating the record of his own administration and Gov. Nelson's work, and that he is confident the people of Wisconsin will back his view of the state's fiscal needs if they are given the facts.

Benefits Low Income
He asked reporters to be careful to explain that the $400 per person exemption he is proposing under a three per cent general sales levy is designed for the benefit of low and middle income earners and sizeable families.

The present tax, which he called the "Nelson sales tax," is inadequate because of its discriminatory features, he said. The mink coat of the wealthy person is exempt, while some of the necessities of life are taxed and there is costly confusion about what is taxed and what is exempt.

The $400 a person exemption would be in the way of a credit refund administered through the income tax. A person would get an equivalent credit on income taxes due, or a cash rebate.

Kuehn Defines Position
The Kuehn plan is generally similar to the measure put through by Republicans in the last legislature, and vetoed by Gov. Nelson.

Kuehn defined his position on other subjects.
John Gronowski, Democratic state tax commissioner who has called for the repeal of the selective sales tax that he helped to write, should get out of his office because he has entered the partisan election fight. Kuehn said he believes that Gronowski will resign in the event of his election, but left no doubt that he would fire him if a resignation is not offered.

He doesn't like the new income tax withholding act, but fears that it cannot be repealed because it would require $80,000,000 worth of additional taxes to do so and the voters won't want to pay that price.

Cut Government Costs
Reynolds stands for a tax policy which would raise the starting rate of personal income taxes to four per cent, which would be ruinous to the state's reputation as a place to do business, Kuehn said.

Kuehn would reform some departments of the state government to cut costs, including the Nelson-sponsored departments of administration and resource development.

He believes there is a chance to save some money in the public welfare program, but there are unmet needs in that field, also, and especially in the field of mental illness.

Tax Credits
He said he hopes for the ultimate abolition of the personal property tax, and that with a Wisconsin tax climate that is encouraging to business the tax base can be enlarged to permit a stable tax rate to produce more money in the future to cover the enlarged costs of such essential services as education.

Kuehn explained that a system of tax credits to parents of non-public school children would meet the problem posed by a parochial school transportation controversy, and also stand the test of constitutionality. He declined to comment on the current quarrel about legislative redistricting because the issue is before the courts now, but said his position in favor of population districting is consistent and generally known.

He said he prefers the Kerr-Mills act approach to the provision of medical care for the aged, under the sponsorship of the states and with a means test, rather than the federal social coverage plan as demanded by the Kennedy administration, and that he is skeptical of some aspects of he promised.

Important Democrat Heads Opposition

Kennedy Backtracking From 'Medicare' Fight

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration, which put out word months ago that it would make an all-out fight for medical care for the aged, is backtracking. If any real fight was made, it wasn't very obvious.

Secretary of Welfare Abraham Ribicoff opened the way Monday to compromise at a meeting behind closed doors with the House Ways and Means Committee.

He is reported to have said President Kennedy is standing firm on only one point—that, whatever a compromise program turns out to be, it must be tied into the Social Security System.

Grass Roots Drive
Last March White House sources let out word the administration was coordinating a mass grass roots efforts. This co-ordinating was supposed to be done with outside organizations backing Kennedy's program.

Kennedy himself, aside from press conference statements, made one big public appeal for support. This was in a speech nationally broadcast from Madison Square Garden May 20.

The administration's efforts—at least to this writer—have always looked less than all-out.

There was some fighting. Kennedy got into an arguing match with the American Medical Association which has opposed his program.

Congress Not Involved
But there has been very little evidence of any real fighting in the one place where it counts most: with Congress.

The big obstacle there was with the Ways and Means Committee, headed by Rep. Wilbur Mills, Arkansas Democrat. In that 25-man committee, where Democrats outnumber Republicans 15 to 10, the majority has been consistently opposed to Kennedy's program.

Leading the opposition is Mills. As chairman, he is a very important man to the administration since his committee also handles tax problems, foreign trade and other matters dear to Kennedy.

Further, Mills, along with Sen. Robert Kerr, Oklahoma Democrat, was co-sponsor two years ago of the Kerr-Mills bill which became law and provides medical care for aged people but on a very limited basis.

This Kerr-Mills Act has been one of the biggest headaches to the administration's hopes of getting through its own new medical care bill. It has a lot of supporters in Congress.

Its biggest outside supporter is the AMA, which says the Kerr-Mills Act is just fine although the Kennedy administration takes the position it can't be fine because it doesn't provide coverage for enough aged people.

Nevertheless, the administration has shied away from being harsh about the Kerr-Mills Act. At all times the Kennedy administration has limited itself to a gentlemanly skirmish while avoiding all-out war.

Mills Is Powerful
Mills, one of the most powerful Democrats in the House because he is chairman of the very powerful Ways and Means Committee, is a chief obstacle and opponent.

Kennedy is not in a very good position to blame the wreckage of his bill on the Republicans—many of whom have also been trying to shoot it to pieces—when the Republicans are so badly outnumbered by the Democrats.

It all raises a nice question. If he can't get what he wants with all these Democrats how many more does he need to help him get through the legislation he asks for?

Family Night Set at Pool

KAUKAUNA — The initial family night of the season will be held Wednesday at the swimming pool, weather permitting, according to James Gertz, recreation director.

Success of this initial venture will determine whether similar events should be scheduled on Wednesdays throughout the summer. The first adult night will be Thursday when persons under 18 will not be admitted to the pool. This will continue throughout the summer to permit adults to enjoy a swim without being hampered by young children.

Life guards will be on duty on adult nights and will give informal swimming lessons if desired.

said. "There is a growing awareness that this bill is not good."

The original administration proposal was for a schedule of hospital, nursing home and outpatient benefits — not including ordinary doctor bills — to be available to aged persons retired under Social Security and to be paid for by an increase in the payroll tax on employers and employees.

Possible areas of compromise would include the scale of benefits to be offered and the corresponding cost; provisions to take care of persons not covered by Social Security, which, according to estimates, could involve an outlay of as much as $150 million a year from the general fund of the Treasury, and devices to reassure hospitals which would fear federal domination from the contract provisions of the original bill.

Regarded as a sort of last line of retreat by the administration would be a proposal, earnestly backed by some Republicans, for an optional system of benefits. Under this plan, a retiree who preferred private insurance to government-paid health benefits could elect to take a cash contribution to be paid to a commercial or group plan.

Antiarmor Guided Missile Developed By Ford Motor Co.

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. announced Monday development of a new antiarmor, anti-aircraft guided missile by its aeronautics division. Few details were given but a picture released with the announcement shows the weapon being fired from a tank.

The new missile has been named the Shillelagh and is described as designed for close-in support of troops.

Ford said it will provide "high first-round hard-target kill capabilities," but declined additional information on grounds it is classified.

Red Tape Fight Over Adoption May be Ending

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — The frustration of a Marine combat veteran, who was unable to get a visa for a 10-year-old girl he adopted from a Japanese orphanage, may soon be over.

Sympathetic officials moved in Monday and began snipping away at the red tape M-Sgt. Stanley G. Baker had encountered.

Authorities said the child, Yukie Fukii Baker, may be in Buena Park with Baker, 39, and his Japanese-born wife, Shizue, 36, within a month.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown, on reading of the couple's plight, pledged his support and asked the state Social Welfare Department for a report on the case.

Welfare Director John M. W. demeyer then ordered the Los Angeles office to make the necessary pre-adoptive study of the Bakers. The step was taken in the belief a California judge would sanction another adoption of Yukie by the Bakers. Ordinarily a pre-adoptive study may not be started once an adoption is legalized.

Said Ralph Goff, the welfare department's regional director: "We know the Bakers and I have every reason to believe our report will be favorable."

Well-Known Educator Dies in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Dr. Colin G. Welles, 66, of Lannon, well known Wisconsin educator and one of the founders and first president of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers, died in a Milwaukee hospital Monday. He has been ill for about a month.

Dr. Welles, a native of Geneseo, N. Y., was head of the science department and counselor of teachers at the Milwaukee Vocational School for 25 years before his retirement several years ago. He has been research and education director of the Technical Engineers Association in Milwaukee in recent years. Welles was one of the founders and first president of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers.

Mrs. Welles was a Milwaukee Journal editorial employee for many years, writing under the name of Mary Mac.

Noah, Left, Walter, and Rose Mary Bell, Little Rock, Ark., "reverse freedom riders" look over their new home at the Army's deactivated Camp Edwards on Cape Cod Monday. The Bells and some 42 persons were moved by a caravan of military cars from a dormitory at Cape Cod Community College, Hyannis to make room for new students arriving to start summer classes.

Corny U. S. Tourist Ads

Englishman Told to See U. S. 'On Shoestring'

BY WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

Chicago Daily News Service

LONDON — The U.S. government neglected one important item of information when it recently ran a series of corny ads in British newspapers urging ordinary people to visit the United States "on a shoestring."

The ads provided a lot of data on tourist haunts such as Tombstone, Ariz., and Medicine Lake, Mont. They also mentioned some "great regional dishes" including "apple pandowdy, shoofly pie, popovers and Indian pudding."

They also provided what most people thought was straight information about the low cost of American hotel rooms and food.

Perhaps in deference to the WCTU they didn't have anything to say about the liquor situation.

Drinking in 1863

This gap has now been filled — by a British officer who visited the United States way back in October 1863.

He has been quoted by William Connor, columnist of the Daily Mirror and a witty critic of the nonsense printed in connection with the American tourist campaign.

"It would be impossible to enumerate all their favorite drinks," wrote the British officer,

"but here are a few: Gin sling mint julep, whisky kin, brandy punch, claret cobbler, wine sangaree, claret punch, gin cocktail, sherry cobbler, milk punch, brandy smash, whisky cocktail, apple toddy, brandy pony, bourbon sour, Japanese drink, Tom and Jerry, the bulls milk and Dan Webster's fixings."

Lovely Ladies

"New York," he added, "is unquestionably a city of drinkers and the first men in it take their refreshers with the dawn and in fact are at it from early morn to dewy eve."

He had this to say about American women.

"When in the meridian of their loveliness the American ladies are second to none in harmony of features and symmetry of form."

He was less impressed by

"It is almost impossible to distinguish the rogue from the honest man or the man of money from the penniless adventurer in this land of equality. There is seldom any difference in dress and often less in manner. A pick-pocket in decent attire would receive the same respect as a clergyman, a senator or a bar-planes must have flown rather close to it.

Normally, in an operation of this sort, the Navy assigns at least one ship to shadow Soviet craft. Sometimes it is a destroyer, sometimes a submarine. No effort is made to hide from the Russians, officials said.

Among other things, the Vovaykov is understood to be fitted with a pad for launching meteorological rockets to study the effects of nuclear explosions on the upper atmosphere.

The Defense Department has said radio-chemical analysis by the Shokalskiy's 16 laboratories could provide information on bomb design, yield, and similar data "which have significant military implications."

Indications are the Soviet fleet will have another shot to monitor before the big atmospheric blast. Joint Task Force 8 on Monday ordered the danger area around Christmas Island closed to pilots and navigators.

Negroes at Summer School in Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A

summer school physics class at East High includes two Negroes — the first ever to attend high school classes with white pupils in Memphis.

E. C. Stimbart, superintendent of schools, said the Negro students admitted Monday — a boy and a girl — attend private schools outside the state during the regular school year.

Desegregation began for the city school system last fall, but only first-graders were involved.

Outflow of U. S. Gold Studied at Conference

Monday night was a late addition to the President's schedule, but had no emergency overtones. The business leaders met during the day with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and other Treasury officials. The session was scheduled some time ago.

Dillon stated last week that the balance of payments deficit, representing the amount which the United States spends, lends and gives away abroad, less similar payments to the United States by other nations, might be eliminated by the end of 1963.

The deficit enables foreign nations to use their surplus dollars to buy U.S. gold, reserves of which have dropped to a 22-year low of $16.4 billion.

Federal Proposals

The deficit in payments last year ran to $2.5 billion, but in the first three months of this year was down to an annual rate of $1.8 billion and, Dillon said last week, may since have declined to about $1.5 billion.

Some of the steps taken by Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower to cut the deficit included programs to increase U.S. exports; to spur travel by foreigners in the United States; a ban on travel of U.S. military dependents to Europe; and encouraging wall-to-wall share of foreign military defense costs.

Salinger said the White House meeting stemmed from a meeting between Blough and Kennedy on April 17. That was seven days after Blough had announced U.S. Steel would raise prices $6 a ton and four days after the increase was rescinded on the heels of vigorous opposition by the Kennedy administration.

Republican View

Some Republican critics have contended Kennedy's opposition to the steel price increase and the resulting rollback shook businessmen's confidence in the administration and led to the stock market price slide.

Kennedy took issue with that in his Yale speech declaring: "This administration is not going to give way to general hostility to business merely because there has been a single temporary disagreement with an industry."

The committee which met with Kennedy was formed last month among members of the Business Council, a private organization which has offered to advise the government on business and economic problems. It formerly was known as the Business Advisory Council and was loosely affiliated with the Department of Commerce until last year.

Blough heads both the Business Council and the committee which the Council and Kennedy. Also present at the White House meeting were the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., Crawford H. Greene, president of the DuPont Company; Allan Sproul, former president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; and Thomas J. Watson Jr., president of International Business Machines Corp.

Tax Reduction Plans Progress

Kennedy, Democratic Leaders Moving for Action This Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and Democratic congressional leaders renewed their determination today to press for tax legislation during the present session of Congress.
Following the weekly breakfast conference of the leaders with Kennedy, Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic Senate leader, said he wanted to make it "perfectly clear that neither the President nor we of the Democratic leadership are considering postponing action on this vitally important legislation."
Mansfield said there is virtually complete agreement in every sector of the economy that the nation's continued growth and well-being demand an incentive for business investment in new production equipment.
"We are providing precisely that incentive in the investment credit provision of the pending tax bill," Mansfield said.
"Other sections of the bill are equally important—particularly the proposal to withhold taxes on dividends and interest income, which is essential as a matter of simple tax fairness."
The decision to keep fighting came in the face of a declaration by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., that he opposes the withholding tax. Byrd, one of Congress' most influential men in tax matters, also dislikes the investment incentive feature of the bill.

Tissue Group Begins Meeting

Shawano Paper Mill President to Lead Production Review

The Tissue Association, a national association of tissue manufacturers and converters, will convene at Maxwellton Braes, Baileys Harbor, Wis., for its spring convention today through Thursday.
Charles N. Egan, president of Shawano Paper Mills and current president of the Tissue Association, will preside at meetings attended by representatives of the major tissue manufacturers and converters. Reports on Tissue Association activities and a complete statistical review of production will be presented by C. J. Carey, executive secretary of the association.
Legal and legislative factors pertaining to the industry will be discussed by M. B. Weir, general counsel for the Tissue Association.
"During the three-day session," Egan said, "we hope to cover many interesting subjects pertaining to the continued growth of the paper industry, changing market conditions, expansion and diversification of production and general economic conditions."

Winnebago Tables School Chief Action

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago County board's rural supervisors in an 11 to 9 vote late this morning tabled a resolution to join Winnebago and Waupaca counties under one county superintendent of schools.
The joint venture was opposed by the Winnebago Community School District Board which asked for a delay to enable the state legislature to make changes in the law.
Only the Winnebago School District and the Wolf River Elementary School are affected by the joint operation. Winnebago would be paying 25 per cent of the costs for the joint county superintendent.

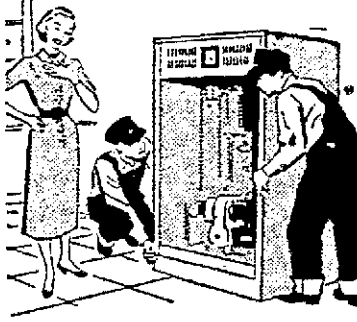

Driver Admits Fight at Race

Menasha Man Hits Opponent After Stock Cars Crash

A stock car driver who admitted pulling a competing driver from his car and ripping his shirt during a race at a Shiocton race track was fined $325 and costs Monday in County Court, Branch 2.
Ennis Boyd, 29, route 2, Menasha, pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge. He admitted pulling Donald Bennett, 31, Hortonville, from his car after the two racers collided in front of the main grandstand at a Shiocton race track June 3.
Bennett told the court Boyd had passed him on the fifth lap of the race, then went into a wide turn. When Bennett attempted to pass Boyd, Boyd's car hit his car in the side, Bennett said. Bennett's car then hit a fence. Bennett said Boyd then stopped his car, came across the track and pulled him from his car through the window and began ripping his shirt and hitting him. According to Boyd, the two drivers have been suspended from the racing club for two weeks.

Council to Review Charities' Budgets

Committee to Recommend Goals For Agencies in '63 Fund Drive

The United Community Services $462,216 for 1963. This represents Budget Committee will review a 7.7 per cent increase over the 1962 operating budgets of the amount they are receiving during the 1963 fund drive. The committee is examining these requests for the 12,000 contributors giving through the Red Feather Campaign.

Conferences are being held with each agency Monday through Wednesday from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Golden Age Club to review the agency's requests.

A total of $189,229 is being requested by the agencies to balance their proposed budgets of

Board Orders Triangle School Closed

28 Students Now Assigned to Badger, Twin Willows Area

Triangle School will be closed and used for maintenance purposes the Appleton Board of Education decided Monday.

Supt. of Schools Rove E. Kurtz recommended the action saying to operate the one-room school would be expensive and that the pupils in the area could be transported to Twin Willows School or in some cases to Badger School. About 28 youngsters are in the Triangle district.

Transportation costs are estimated at $78 per youngster per year, Kurtz said, so that on a cost basis it does not seem sensible to keep the school open.

Pione To Vandalism

Director of Business Affairs William R. Knuth recommended that the building be used for maintenance because an idle building often suffers property damage. Maintenance work has been done this year at Whispering Pines School, which will be turned over to the city and Triangle School is preferable to using the basement of a larger school he said.

Dr. A. Neil McLeod asked if there was a site obligation to the teacher who has been signed for Triangle School. Kurtz said he thought that once the teachers from outlying areas were in the Appleton system they could be assigned to any school, but that he would check into the matter.

Injunction Halts Home Building Job in Menasha

MENASHA — Construction of a new home at 744 Warsaw St. by Wayne Noffke was temporarily blocked Monday by issuance of an injunction by County Judge James Sitter. The writ is returnable Monday.

Plaintiff is Thomas Russell who objected to the Common Council last week that the home would be at great variance with his and other homes in the area. Noffke intends to build a 24 by 66 foot home for two families on a lot with 40 foot frontage and 180-foot depth.

City Atty. Richard J. Steffens contends the building permit may have been erroneously issued to Noffke. The planning commission found the Noffke home would not be at variance.

About 10:30 p.m. Monday someone hanged an unidentified effigy on a utility pole a short distance south of the building site. Police this morning investigated the hanging.

Appleton Woman Still in Hospital After Train Crash

MISSOULA Mont. (AP) — Six Wisconsin persons who were aboard the Northern Pacific Limited which was derailed Sunday remained hospitalized Monday night.

Mrs. Charles Erma Clausen, 79, Oconomowoc, lumbar spine injury and bruises, good condition.

Ethel Kozlitz, Appleton, scalp injury, good condition.

Dean Ethel Parker, 8, Rice Lake, bruises, good condition.

Sam Parker, 56, father of Dean, fractured skull and multiple lacerations, fair condition.

Mrs. Lillian Parker, 50, mother of Dean, multiple scalp lacerations, good condition.

Mrs. Vivian Trickett, 60, Portage, shock and previous cardiac condition, good condition.

Admits Driving Car After License Taken

OSHKOSH — Lawrence H. Meier, 38, 414 W. Elizabeth Ave., Oshkosh, was fined $100 this morning after he pleaded guilty of driving after revocation of his driver's license.

Meier was arrested Monday by Oshkosh police on Nebraska Street. It was the third time in two weeks he had been arrested for driving without a license.

State Awards $77,326 Road Job Contracts

Oshkosh Supplier Picked for Project in Winnebago

The state highway commission today approved $77,326 in bids on highway improvement projects in Outagamie and Winnebago counties.

Friedrich Loois & Below, Oshkosh, was awarded a $48,476 contract to provide surfacing material for surfacing of 3 miles of County Trunk F between State 44 and County Trunk K northeast of Pickett. Grading and surfacing will be done by the county highway department.

Century Fence Co. Waukesha was given a $28,850 contract to furnish and erect highway marking signs along 13 miles of new U.S. 41 between Appleton and the east county line.

The Outagamie and Winnebago county jobs were among jobs in 17 counties on which the commission awarded contracts.

Metropolitan Plan Authority Urged

UW Professor's Suggestion Would Have Effect on Appleton Area

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — State legislation that would set up a metropolitan area authority in the Appleton urban area and in the population centers represented by 10 other Wisconsin second class cities was urged upon the state legislature today.

Prof. J. H. Beuscher of the University of Wisconsin Law School, a specialist in urban growth problems, filed the suggestion as a means of meeting the problem of providing efficient government services in the urban fringe areas of the state.

He submitted the plan to a legislative interim committee studying urban affairs.

Seven Mile Radius

Under the Beuscher plan the authority would consist of one elected official from each city, village and town located in whole or in part within the metropolitan area which would be defined as extending seven miles from the central city.

Beuscher proposed that the authority be responsible for preparing a master plan for the metropolitan area exercise sufficient authority to assure that major public works subdivision planning and zoning are according to the goals of land use classifications of the master plan and oversee and resolve conflicts between the zoning policies of local units.

Maybe Other Functions

The authority, with the consent of the governor, might also be empowered to take on metropolitan service functions beside planning and zoning but the latter would be the major function, Beuscher said.

In those communities now served by metropolitan planning commissions, such as the Fox Cities and Brown County, such a law might be optional, Beuscher said, but for all others it would be mandatory.

There was no immediate reaction from the legislative committee, which has been directed to file a report on improved legislation in the planning and zoning field to 1963 legislature.

Former Appleton Chief of Police Will Have Surgery

Retired Appleton Police Chief Walter Hendricks is scheduled to have surgery Saturday in Broward General Hospital, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

He had been in the hospital for more than a week for tests and was discharged Saturday for a few days at home. He will re-enter the hospital Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks moved to Margate near Fort Lauderdale in April when he retired as chief of police.

Register Monday For 'Rec' Program

MENASHA — Boys and girls in the Town of Neenah who have completed kindergarten through eighth grade will have an opportunity to register for the summer playground program at Tullar and Lakeview schools at 9 a.m. Monday, according to Sam Bird, director of the eight week program.

Scuba Diving Course Planned At Menasha Pool

MENASHA — The Menasha Recreation Department will sponsor a school of scuba diving at the Municipal Pool this summer, according to Recreation Director Bob Vaney. Vaney said Earl DeLong will be in charge.

Applications for the course will be available at the Memorial Building beginning Wednesday. The building is open from 9 a.m. until noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. There also will be applications available at the pool at 10 a.m. Sunday.

A meeting of all persons wishing to enroll in the course will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday at the pool. Applicants are to be at least 16 years of age in sound physical condition and have good swimming ability.

At the meeting DeLong will explain the course and the time and days that it will be given will be discussed.

Fees for Menasha residents will be $12, including air and for non-residents $14, including air. All equipment will be furnished with the exception of mask, snorkel and fins.

Plamann Park Will Get Shelter House

State Court Rejects School Law Challenge

Judges Petitioned To Take Jurisdiction, Bar Consolidation

MADISON (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court has denied two petitions challenging the validity of the school consolidation law that requires all territory in the state to be included in a district operating a high school by June 30.

The petitions had asked the Supreme Court to take jurisdiction in the case and prohibit the county school committees of Iowa, Lafayette, Rock and Green counties from issuing consolidation orders.

The Supreme Court heard arguments on the petitions Friday and denied them without comment.

Under terms of the 1954 law after June 30 the county committees are required to issue orders consolidating any territory still outside a high school district.

Two Petitions

The two separate petitions were heard as one by the court. One was filed by four Dodgeville taxpayers against the school committees of Lafayette and Iowa counties.

It protested a school committee proposal to dissolve the Governor Dodge School District of the towns of Mineral Point, Dodgeville and Waldeck in Iowa County. A part of the district is to be joined to the city of Mineral Point and the remainder to the city of Dodgeville.

In the second petition the towns of Avon and Newark and John Salv of Dodgeville asked the court to prevent the Rock and Green County school committees and told the court that it was in violation of the constitution.

Policy Declaration

In arguments before the court, Asst. Atty. Gen. Harold Persons appeared on behalf of the school committees and told the court those who oppose the law should have challenged it before now. He said the law is a "clear declaration of policy by the legislature" and that the Legislature has "paramount power in the creation, alteration or dissolution of school districts."

Thomas Godfrey, an Elkhorn attorney, drew up both petitions and told the court the Legislature had exceeded its power by giving direct authority to the county committees.

The Department of Public Instruction said the consolidation law was functioning smoothly and that there are now only about 100 school districts in the state. In 1948 there were 6,045 districts and by June 30 the department expects the number to be reduced to 851.

Owens Oil Worker Fined for Advertising Gasoline Too Cheap

County Judge Gustave Keller ordered John Woodard, Rockford, Ill., area supervisor for the Owens Oil Co., to pay a $10 fine for selling gasoline at a price different from the advertised price. Woodard pleaded guilty of the charge Monday.

The company was charged May 14 by Raymond Pikel, manager of the trade practice section of the State Department of Agriculture. The firm, which operates a service station at the intersection of Wisconsin Avenue and Superior Street, had a one-cent lower price advertised on street signs than was on the pump. Pikel said.

$17,000 Okayed by County To Cover Building, Road, Parking Area North of City

Construction of a shelter house, roadway and parking area in Plamann Park for a combined cost of about $17,900 was approved today by the Outagamie County board.

The action represented the first break in several years in the county's stalemated program for the park development.

The shelter house will be built at a cost less than $10,000. Architect Robert Sauter of the Sauter-Seaborn firm, Appleton, said the estimated cost will be about $9,600.

The roadway, from the North Town Line Road to the Plamann School for Retarded Children and the parking area at the school will cost $8,300, supervisors were told.

Road and parking area construction will be completed by the county highway department with funds which will be raised in the county's 1963 tax levy.

Advertise for Bids

The board's park committee by today's action is authorized to advertise for bids, select the most advantageous one and proceed with construction.

The shelter house, Sauter said, will provide toilet facilities and protected areas for cooking, eating and other picnic activities.

A portion of the shelter's exterior will consist of tie-rod covers to provide a rustic, parklike design. The architect said the cost of shelter construction could be reduced by about $800 or $700 through the use of cement blocks instead of fieldstone. The final choice was left to the park committee.

Declined to Build

The board about a year ago, declined to construct another designed shelter house. Preliminary cost estimates for that building were said to total about $15,000.

One supervisor questioned the advisability of having the county highway department complete the road and parking area construction. Eugene Kloes, 4th Ward, Appleton, asked why can't we see if a private contractor could do the job more cheaply? Kloes wanted to know if the $9,600 figure was prepared by Highway Commissioner Clarence Bryson.

Kloes and Supervisor Al C. Fischer often have criticized the county highway department for not turning to private contractors for much of its roadwork.

Rove E. Kurtz recommended that an architect be selected before additional planning is done. Kurtz said several letters are on file from firms outside of Appleton who have expressed interest in the project. The board will see these letters and big choices and decide after the interviews, whether to consider outside firms.

Kurtz said that the tentative schedule is to select an architect this summer, have preliminary plans by early 1963 and break ground a year from now.

The school site is north of Elmida Avenue between extensions of N. Durkee and N. Live streets.

Dr. McLeod Urges More Rapid Improvement of New School Grounds

Wants Sites in Better Shape After Buildings are Completed

Site improvements for new school buildings should be completed faster, Dr. A. Neil McLeod said at an Appleton Board of Education meeting Monday.

He urged that a more vigorous and positive approach be taken on site improvements for new buildings, noting that the grounds at Times-Madison Junior High School were unusable for two years. We should have the grounds in pretty good shape by the time the building is up, he said.

Director of business affairs William R. Knuth said the groundskeepers prefer to landscape next to the building first and then the fill should settle for a year to prevent problems.

Knuth added that it would be wise if the board had test borings taken before purchasing sites considered for schools. It would cost about $500 but could save three to four times that with respect to footings, he said.

Excavation has been completed for the southeast elementary school, Knuth said. The board approved subcontractors for the $95,000 school.

Appleton Police Return Hospital Walk-Away to Ward

A patient from St. Elizabeth Hospital was returned to her ward early this morning by Appleton policemen who found her talking to a Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. night watchman.

The patient, Mrs. Dorothy Nelson, 42, 125 W. College Ave., told police sleeping pills she had taken Monday night were out about 1 a.m. She got out of bed and left the hospital dressed in a hospital gown.

Mrs. Nelson walked to the home of her attorney and called her family (radio) she told police. She then left her attorney's home and walked back toward the hospital.

On the way, she stopped to talk to the night watchman where police found her.

Steinhilber Seeks 3rd Term as Winnebago DA

OSHKOSH — Jack D. Steinhilber this morning took out petitions and announced he will seek a third full term as Winnebago County district attorney.

Steinhilber, 30, was appointed to the office April 1, 1957, by Gov. Vernon Thompson to succeed Franklin Moore, who resigned. He was then elected to a full term in November 1958 and reelected in 1960.

Prior to his appointment, Steinhilber had served as an assistant district attorney from Jan. 1, 1956.

Plamann School Had its first tour of inspection when it was visited by the board of directors. Several directors checking over the nearly completed school were from left, Art Stapel, Dr. Robert Scherzinger, R. E. Breitenbach, and Richard Davidson.

Board Refers Letter On Winnebago Port To Aviation Committee

Advancement of Air Service Our Object, Twin Cities C of C Says

OSHKOSH—The letter of the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce urging that a study be made of the Winnebago County Airport by an unbiased airport planning firm was referred to the Aviation Committee at this morning's session of the Winnebago County board.

After the letter was read, Chairman Joseph Drexler said he would refer the letter to the aviation committee if there was no objection. No objections were voiced.

The chamber in its letter emphasizes that it does not disfavor the Winnebago County Airport, but the only objective is for the good of Winnebago County and its taxpayers and the advancement of air service only after a complete, unbiased study of the airport situation by a responsible and reputable airport planning group.

The Airport Committee includes Alvin Staffeld of Neenah, chairman; Floyd Shurbert, Town of Algoma, in which the airport is located and which adjoins the county of Oshkosh, and Joseph F. Drexler, E. G. Steinhilber and Louis Zernzach, all of Oshkosh.

A study of attendance by county employees and committees at conventions was ordered by the board.

Supv. Herbert Pitz, Oshkosh, asked that a definite policy be established as to who can go to conventions, what limits there are to be on distance and how much is to be allowed in expenses and travel to those attending such conventions.

Supv. Norbert Redlin, Neenah, finance committee chairman, replied that the finance committee has taken a long, hard look at some of the convention expense vouchers and "some of these expenses have irked us. We had planned to check with other counties as to what they do regarding convention attendance and the payment of association fees."

Pitz cited that board rules have limited attendance at conventions to just those within Wisconsin and at times the board has allowed employees to attend those as of Aug. 1, which is the date just beyond the state borders such as at Chicago or Minneapolis - St. Paul. He said the board should have a definite spelled out policy to serve as a guide and moved that a study be made and a report made at the next meeting. The board approved his motion.

Joint County School Chief Move Tabled

Winneconne Asks To Delay Action On Resolution

OSHKOSH — By an 11 to 9 vote of the rural supervisors of the Winnebago County board this morning, a resolution to join Winnebago and Waupaca Counties under one joint county superintendent of schools as of Aug. 1 was tabled.

Only the Winneconne Community School district and the Wolf River Elementary School in the Town of Wolf River still are in need, under the state law, of a county superintendent of schools. The resolution was tabled at the request of the Winneconne school board which, in a resolution at its meeting Monday night, asked action be postponed until some appropriate future date.

George Tipler, Winneconne School District clerk, said the county superintendents of schools office in the state is the subject of a study now underway. Tipler mentioned that the Winneconne district has had a superintendent and that services and supervision it has needed from the Winnebago County superintendent of schools office in the past have been at a minimum.

Duties of a county superintendent are mainly administration, supervision of teachers and leadership and service to the rural districts. If the two counties do not join as of Aug. 1, which is the date just beyond the state borders, the resignation of Mrs. Maxine such as at Chicago or Minneapolis - St. Paul. He said the board should have a definite spelled out policy to serve as a guide and moved that a study be made and a report made at the next meeting. The board approved his motion.

Local Students Earn Diplomas

Six From Fox Cities Are Graduated From State Universities

Six Fox Cities area students are spring graduates of Wisconsin colleges.

Donald VanderVelden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald VanderVelden, 427 S. John St., Kimberly, received a B.S. degree in physical education from the University of Wisconsin. A tackle on the UW football team, he has been signed, by the St. Louis Cardinals, professional football team.

Mary G. Quella, 621 W. Lawrence St., and Joseph L. Skibba, Kaukauna, graduated "cum laude" from Marquette University in Milwaukee. Marquette granted 36 degrees "cum laude" in the class of 1977.

Michael H. Gradi, route 2, Hortonville, received a bachelor of science degree in business administration at Whitewater State College. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael W. Gradi.

Three Fox Cities students were among 148 seniors to receive degrees at Beloit College. They are James Zwerg, 630 S. Riverview Lane, Appleton; Bruce Gallagher, 730 Carver Lane, and Theodore Haber, 190 Prospect St., both of Menasha. All received bachelor of arts degrees, with Haber graduating cum laude.

Vernon Weyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Weyers, Freedom, was graduated in engineering from the University of Wisconsin.

alized the Winneconne problem and estimated that Winneconne district probably would be paying 25 per cent of the cost of the joint county superintendent even if it did not need that type of service.

Jackson said the only way Winneconne, under present law, could get out of coming under a county superintendent, was for the village to become a fourth-class city. This is what Omro did earlier, he said. A referendum would be required at the fall election.

School Board OKs Change in Specifications

NEENAH — The Neenah Board of Education Monday night approved alternates to specifications for the east wing construction and remodeling of Neenah High School after meeting with Fred Kramer of Perkins and Will, architects for the job.

Bids on the $1,575,000 building program will be let June 19 and Kramer explained that an addendum would be mailed today covering alternate bid items. This will give bidding contractors sufficient time to get their figures in before the scheduled bid date, and allow the architects to keep the time table calling for construction to begin by July 1.

Ventilation Problem
Of primary concern to members of the board was the correction of insufficient ventilation in the west wing of the present high school. Mechanical engineers at Perkins and Will propose to install two louvers with fans at the end of the second story corridor, replacing one large pane of glass in each section. The fan in the janitor's closet is to be stepped up for the displacement of more air and grills will replace the solid material used in room transoms to facilitate the movement of a greater volume of air.

Board of Education Hires Firm to Appraise Neenah School System

NEENAH — The Neenah Board of Education Monday night approved hiring Fidelity Appraisal Co., Milwaukee, to appraise all school property in the Neenah school system and the rural schools which will be in that system after July 1. The action was

President's Power Not Wise

K-C Official Objects to Two Features of Trade Expansion Act

NEENAH — Two features in the new Trade Expansion Act of 1962, a revision of the Trade Adjustment Act, make it objectionable, Leonard E. Pasek, assistant to the board chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Congressional Action Committee this morning.

One is that the president would have power to lower or raise tariffs, "an application of the function of Congress. This is not acceptable or wise."

The other is that any industry or company suffering because of lower tariffs would become "nationalized," with the government stepping in to subsidize and retrain workers. "This is the way of putting any industry into a financial strait-jacket, and the industry will either live or die under the same circumstances as our agricultural industry," said Pasek.

Two Bills Together He saw the trade act and the recommended by the finance committee.

Cost will be $9,500, to be borne by the newly organized district. The board had earmarked a $6,000 refund, realized from a 40 per cent savings in the purchase of multiple building insurance for the appraisal. A further study is being made by the finance committee as to feasibility of retaining Fidelity on an annual basis at $750 per year to maintain the building records of the school system.

for action by Sen. Harry Byrd, chairman of the United States senate finance committee, and should work to join with Europe to keep the western bloc in a single force against that of Russia.

Christiansen saw only slight change in the trade prospects for the Fox River Valley since not much of the area's paper and pulp are sent to Europe, but the state as a whole will benefit because its great exports of machinery and other goods will be increased.

Harper's, Saturday Review and Atlantic Monthly, while they had a profit of $56,000 combined last year. He foresaw their demise with higher postal rates.

"If the business community comes out on top," said Pasek, paraphrasing Charles Wilson, onetime head of General Motors Corp., at his conclusion.

Roger Christiansen, also of Kimberly - Clark, said he did not know what his opinion would be on the entire tariff bill, but said "it is a dangerous thing to transfer the traditional tariff control on her own time. Each test will power from the Congress to the president."

Political, Economic Union Christiansen saw several reasons for the tariff bill to pass, since Europe's six nations in the Common Market may become a political union, much like the United States, and that French Pres. Charles de Gaulle may attempt to set up a third force in

Menasha Alters Entry Policy for Kindergarten

MENASHA — A slight modification of the kindergarten entry policy for Menasha public schools was adopted Monday night by the Board of Education. Under the change, children turning 5 during October may be placed in school, if their parents take the steps. Parents must request psychological testing of their children and pay the costs to Miss Lucille Pfund, who will do the work on her own time. Each test will cost $7 to $8.

If the tests show any child mature enough, he will be admitted to kindergarten.

The current policy requires that children must be 5 by Sept. 30 in order to enter school. State law says a child may enter if he is 5 by Dec. 1, but gives the local board an option of setting an earlier cutoff date.

Tipsy Drivers Fined $400

Seymour Man in 2-Car Accident at Town of Osborn

Paul F. Schmidt, 52, 1221 E. Pacific St., and Charles F. Baumgartner, 48, route 1, Seymour, pleaded guilty Monday to drunken driving and were both fined $200 and had their licenses revoked for one year.

Baumgartner was arrested about 10:15 p.m. Saturday night after he was involved in a two-car accident at Ballard and Stingle roads in the Town of Osborn. Baumgartner refused a drunkometer test.

Schmidt was arrested Saturday about 4:20 p.m. when he was spotted driving erratically by an Appleton policeman on E. College Avenue. He tested .24 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Temperatures Drop Sharply In Wisconsin

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Temperatures dropped sharply in Wisconsin Monday night in the wake of a cool front that blew in on high winds. Superior's 31 degrees was the lowest in the nation.

Gusts of wind reached 46 miles per hour in the Milwaukee area. High winds grounded a 350-foot Brazilian freighter, the Castagnola, in Kenosha harbor but the crew was said to be in no danger. The 31 degrees at Superior broke records for any June 12 there. The previous low for the date was 37 degrees in 1947.

Thunderstorms and showers broke out across wide fronts from the Rockies to the Atlantic seaboard yesterday and last night. Heavy rain and hail fell in some areas. A tornado hit the Teapot Rock area 27 miles north of Casper, Wyo., injuring four persons and causing property damage.

A severe windstorm swept the area of Amesbury, Mass., uprooting trees, knocking out power lines and damaging some 50 automobiles. Observers estimated wind gusts reached 120 m.p.h. and power and telephone service was disrupted in the town of 11,000. No injuries were reported.

The weather in the Fox Cities will be pleasant for the next few days. Sunny skies will continue until Thursday and it will continue to get warmer.

Tonight's low will be a cool 45, but Wednesday's high of 75 will be a few degrees warmer than today's 70.

Youth Jailed, Fined $200 in Morals Case

Bruce Ludke, 21, 702 W. Wisconsin Ave., was fined $200 and sentenced to 364 days in the Outagamie County jail Monday. He was charged with assault and indecent exposure.

Ludke appeared before Judge Gustave Keller Thursday and pleaded no contest. He was arrested April 28 by Kaukauna police and was freed March 30 on a $4,000 property bond.

Ludke admitted he offered a woman a ride in his car and drove to a secluded spot in Kaukauna and attacked her, striking her in the face twice and forcing her head against the door.

Judge Keller ruled Ludke can work out of the jail under the Huber law after 90 days.

8 Appleton Firemen Given Promotions by Commission

Eight Appleton firemen were promoted by the police and fire commission Monday night, effective June 15.

The changes followed promotion of Roland L. Kuehn from first assistant chief to chief.

Harold Kramer was promoted from second assistant chief to first assistant chief.

Kramer Schuldes

The new second assistant chief will be Francis Schuldes, who had been a captain.

Two lieutenants who were made captains are James Seekins and John Blick. Seekins is in charge of the new fire station at Greenview and Meade streets.

School Staff Almost Complete

The elementary school staff for the Appleton public schools is nearly complete now. Superintendent of Schools Royce E. Kurtz told the Board of Education Monday.

The board approved four contracts for the 1962-1963 school year. Elementary contracts were approved for Mrs. Kay N. Hughes, and Norman C. Tebo, Junior high contracts were approved for Mrs. Frances H. Davis and Mrs. Carol J. Beckwith.

Mrs. Beckwith, who has done substitute teaching, will replace Stuart Locklin, mathematics teacher at James Madison Junior High School, who has a one-year leave of absence to complete his master's degree.

The retirement of Miss Myrtle Van Ryzin, intermediate three teacher at Jefferson School, will be effective at the end of the 1962-1963 school year.

Two Youths in Jail After Beer Party Foiled

Two Appleton teen-agers who were unsuccessful in staging a Sunday afternoon beer party because they were arrested before they could find a beer pump, were sentenced Monday in County Court, Branch 2.

Paul Leslie Given, 17, 1522 W. Prospect Ave., was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to the Outagamie County jail for 60 days. He was fined for transporting beer in his car and sentenced to jail on a charge of stealing a small keg of beer Memorial Day from an Appleton beer distributor. Given's driver's license was suspended 90 days.

Given can appeal for out-probation under the Huber law after serving 15 days in jail.

George Schweitzer, 16, 620 S. Mason St., was fined $25 and costs for aiding in procuring and furnishing beer to minors. He was sentenced to Outagamie County jail for 45 days. He will be eligible for out-probation under the Huber law after serving 10 days.

Both youths were arrested June 3 after an Appleton policeman found a small keg of beer in the car Given was driving. Given admitted he stole the keg of beer. The two youths were planning a beer party and were in the process of renting a beer pump when they were arrested.

Mead Pool Opening Delayed; Weather Kept Paint Wet

The Mead Park swimming pool will not open Wednesday as planned, but rather at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Recreation Director Elmer W. Grover said the delay is necessary because adverse weather conditions have prevented the new paint in the pool from drying properly.

The chlorinated water required in the pool will not hold up, he said, unless the paint is absolutely dry.

Grover said he believes the paint will dry thoroughly today and Wednesday, providing the weather is good.

Workers will start filling the pool with water Thursday. It takes two days to fill the pool and pump the water through the chlorinator, he said.

Gold Mining Shares Strong, Others Decline

Losses Fractional For Key Stocks; Dow-Jones Down

NEW YORK (AP)—A declining stock market accompanied by speculative strength in gold mining shares continued to be the pattern early this afternoon.

The gold shares are not represented in The Associated Press average of 60 stocks and this indicator was down 1.80 to 218.10 at noon with industrials off 3.00, rails off .30 and utilities off 1.00.

Gold stocks are a refuge in times of a stock downturn.

Gold Outflow

Extra attention was focused on the golds by President Kennedy's conference with business and government leaders on the question of the continuing U.S. gold outflow.

Among other key stocks, losses were mostly fractional, but perched most sections of the list. A few declines went to 1 or 2 points. The trend was mostly lower for steels, motors, oils, chemicals, electrical equipments, tobaccos, airlines, electronics and building materials.

Most gold stocks touched new highs. Homestake advanced about 2 points, McIntyre-Porcupine more than a point.

AT&T and Du Pont fell more than 2 and Liggett & Myers nearly 2.

The "growth" stocks backed away more sharply. Polaroid losing more than 4 and IBM about 8. Xerox was another 2-point loser. Among steels, Jones & Laughlin slipped more than a point while the three top steelmakers held their declines to fractions. Oils were unchanged to slightly lower. The same pattern prevailed among rails.

Radio Corp. fell about 2. Sears, Roebuck declined a full point or more.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 7.95 to 567.22. Prices on the American Stock Exchange were generally lower.

NEW LONDON — New London maintained its perfect record in the Southern division of the BABA Sunday by chalking up its fifth straight victory—a 6-2 win over Hortonville.

Manawa downed Greenville, 4-1, in a game that was called at the end of the fifth. Also called at the end of the fifth was the Wauwauqua - Weyauwega game with Wauwauqua getting the win, 18-5.

In the game at Hortonville, the Bears picked up their only two runs in the first inning to take an early lead over the visiting Merchants from New London. Lead-off man Bob Spaulding singled, and Rodger Mulroy blasted a home run.

New London scored its first run in the fourth on two errors and two more runs in the sixth, as two errors contributed.

The first earned run for the Merchants came in the seventh when Clair Baehman doubled and crossed the plate on a single by Carl Kalbus. The Merchants added two insurance runs in the ninth on a single by Mel Meyers and a homer by Baehman.

The winning pitcher was Carl Kalbus and the loser Jim Winckler.

Manawa jumped off to an early lead against Greenville by scoring two in the first on a triple by Dave Peterson, a single by Mike Allen and an error. Greenville's lone run came in the fifth. Keith Schroeder singled, Ken Schmelzel walked and Fran Schmelzel singled.

The winning pitcher was Dave Peterson. He struck out two and walked one. The loser was Ken Schmelzel, who struck out six and walked two.

$1,700,000 Bid By Teleprompter For Title Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The Teleprompter Corp. Monday night made a bid of $1,700,000—the highest in history—for the ancillary rights of the Floyd Patterson-Sonny Liston world heavyweight championship bout Sept. 22 in Chicago.

Promoter Tom Bolan said two other companies had made bids that did not match Teleprompter's. The company also handled the third Patterson-Ingemar Johansson bout. The price for that one was $300,000.

Bolan, president of Championship Sports, the promoters, said there was a possibility his group might handle the ancillary rights themselves. The rights include radio, television and movies.

Waterloo '9' Closing in On Dubuque

Waterloo moved to within a game and a half of Mid-west league-leading Dubuque Monday night by defeating Quad cities, 10-4, while Cedar Rapids was polishing off Dubuque, 3-1.

In other Midwest League action Quincey edged Burlington, 6-5, Fox Cities squeezed out a 7-6 victory over Clinton, and Keokuk and Decatur split a doubleheader. Keokuk won the first game, 4-1, and Decatur captured the second contest, 5-3.

Dubuque will play host to Waterloo in the opener of a 2-game "showdown" series tonight.

Moss Hopes to be Back Racing in 6 to 8 Weeks

LONDON (AP)—Stirling Moss, badly injured in a crash last April said Monday he hopes to be back in a racing car cockpit in six to eight weeks.

"It'll take me time to get back to my old form, but I reckon I should be lapping Goodwood at 134.2 within a half hour of getting into my car," Moss said hopefully.

It was on the Goodwood circuit April 23 that the British ace crashed at more than 100 miles per hour and sustained serious head and limb injuries.

Moss, speaking to reporters from a wheelchair at a hospital in suburban Wimbledon, said he expected to leave the hospital in two weeks. He will then fly to the Bahamas where he will meet his estranged wife, Katie.

Michigan Wins NCAA Opener In Ninth Inning

Tiny Ithaca Stays Undefeated by Topping Missouri

OMAHA (AP)—Lack of size, tournament hitters and desire to protect a rare perfect record isn't making tiny Ithaca bow down to the big powers in the College World Series.

The Bombers' aim is to become the first small school and the first unbeaten team to win the NCAA Baseball Championship in the 16 years of the event.

Ithaca, possibly the smallest school and only the second unbeaten team ever to make it into the championship, overcame obstacles Monday night in the opening round of the double elimination tournament.

The Bombers knocked off Big Eight champion Missouri, 5-1, surviving a nervous spell during the early part of the game.

"Darn right we were jittery," said veteran coach Bucky Freeman.

"But we got over it by the fourth inning. All we needed to bring us out of it was a couple of base hits."

Tate Homers

Joining the Bombers in the winner's bracket were Michigan, Florida State and Holy Cross, schools whose enrollments dwarf Ithaca's. Michigan beat Texas 3-1 on Ron Tate's 2-run homer with two outs in the ninth and plays Holy Cross tonight. The Crusaders edged Colorado State College 4-3 in Monday's first game.

Ithaca's opponent tonight is Florida State which upset Santa Clara 5-1 in the opening round.

Once Ithaca got over its jitters, it showed Missouri it was a sound club that can play with the big boys. The Bombers erupted for four runs in breaking a 1-1 tie in the sixth and rolled to their 18th straight victory.

Freize Outstanding

Roger Freize turned in one of the opening round's several outstanding pitching performances for Ithaca, holding Missouri to six hits.

Two 3-hitters were turned in. Tom Belcher hurled one for Texas, only to lose to Michigan when Tate slammed his homer in the top of the ninth.

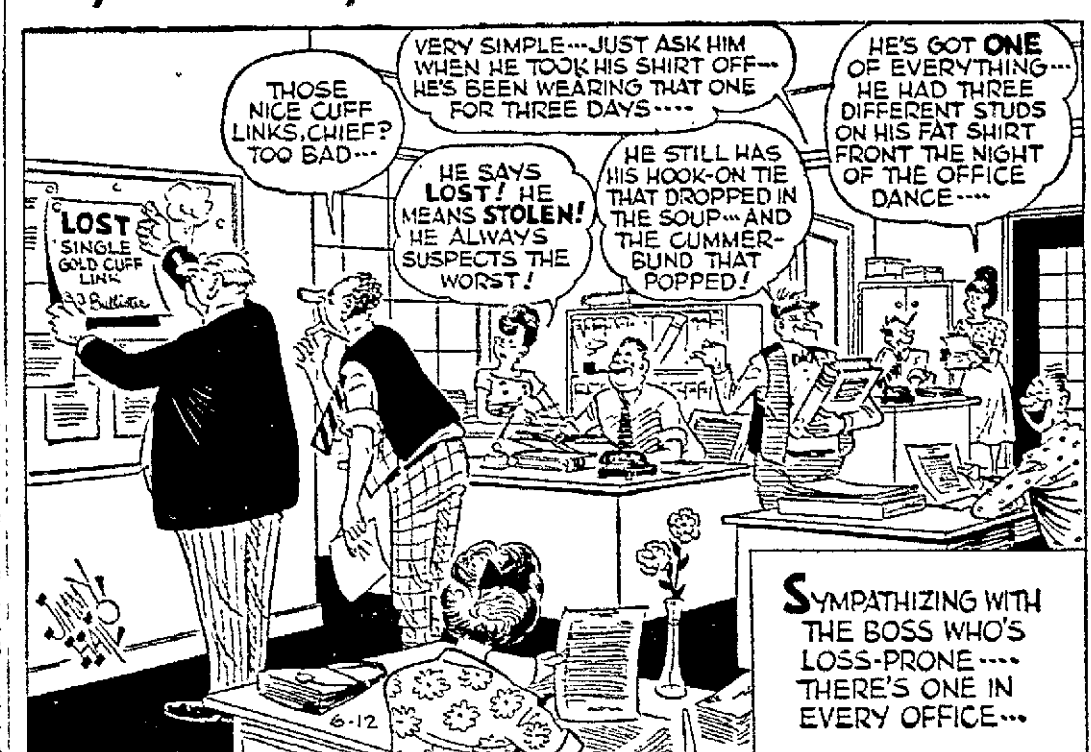

Larry Hawkins and Tom Davis combined for the other for Florida State. They stopped Santa Clara's sluggers without a safety and yielded all three hits to pitcher Bob Garibaldi, a .162 hitter.

2 'Central' Legion Games Set Tonight

The New London-at-Appleton Legion game, scheduled for Goodland Field Monday night, was postponed because of wet grounds. No make-up date has been set.

Two Central Division, Fox River Valley Legion League, games are scheduled tonight: Little Chute at Kimberly and Clintonville at Waupaca. The Clintonville and Waupaca teams scored shutout wins in the openers: the Clints 9-0 over Manawa, and Paca 16-0 over New London.

Kimberly won its Saturday opener, while Little Chute lost.

The Appleton team has added Paul Zeegers, who pitched for the team last year, to its roster.

Redskins Obtain Kelley From 49ers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Redskins today obtained linebacker Gordon Kelley from the San Francisco 49ers in exchange for a high 1962 draft choice.

The 6-foot-4, 231-pound Kelley is a two-year veteran of the National Football League. He was signed by the 49ers after his graduation from the University of Georgia in 1960.

Don Boya paced the attack, with two hits and four runs batted in. Floyd Hammen contributed two hits and three RBIs. Mickey McGuire and Bud Koehnke also had two hits apiece.

Green Bay Packer Lew Carpenter hit a home run for Luxemburg and was the only player on the team to get two hits. Bob Diener and winner Bud Werner did the pitching for Bleier's.

Bleier's Scores 8-5 Triumph Over Luxemburg

Bleier's bar, of Appleton, rallied for an 8-5 exhibition softball victory over Luxemburg here Saturday night.

Down, 3-1, after four innings, Bleier's tied the game in the fifth and scored five times in the sixth.

Willie Kirkland Drives in 5 Runs With Homer, Double

BOSTON (AP)—Casual Willie Kirkland drove in five Cleveland runs with a homer and double, backing up Jim Perry's sharp pitching for a 10-0 victory over Boston Monday.

The Tribe triumph, touched off by a controversial balk, kept the Indians in the midst of the tense American League battle for first place.

Two walks and a single had loaded the bases in the fourth inning when loser Earl Wilson was charged with a balk and the first run of the game was waved across the plate.

Kirkland—munching on a toothpick—crashed a mighty three-run homer on an 0-2 pitch as the next batter to settle the issue.

Kirkland tagged a two-run double in the four-run seventh, adding to the visitors' power display. Bubba Phillips smacked a solo homer in the winning cause.

Fifth Victory

Perry was sharp, scattering seven hits in his shutout effort for his fifth victory this season. The strongest effort came in the fifth inning when, with runners on second and third, he struck out Wilson and Pumpsie Green in order to kill the threat.

For the five-game series, Kirkland, who came to town with an anemic .189 batting average, got nine safeties in 22 trips including three homers, drove in 13 runs, and scored eight.

A hassle developed on the balk, called on Wilson.

The Red Sox complained bitterly that Cleveland's Tito Francona, running at first base, had holed. "Hold it, Earl," causing the pitcher to half step-half stumble off the mound.

Bessette Wins Feature Race In Shiocton

Appleton's Glenn Bessette won the feature event at the Shiocton Speedway Sunday afternoon. Keith Steede, of Shiocton, was second and Floyd Miller, of Appleton, was third.

Pete Kielbasa, of New London, won the semi-feature race, finishing ahead of Neenah's Les Gibson and Jim Weyenberg.

Glenn Thorp, of New London, won the first heat, with Kimberly's Chuck Last the runnerup. Kielbasa won the second heat, edging Clifford Miller, of Bear Creek.

Steede was the winner in the third heat with Floyd Miller taking second place and Bessette won the fourth heat. Gene Wheeler, of Appleton, was second.

The final event finished just as the rain storm began.

Dad's Day Big for Family Spending

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Assuming the stock market crash has not already made a serious financial dent in widely and filial spending habits in our country, the American Father this coming Sunday will receive more than 101 million gifts amounting to the awesome total of almost $1 billion.

Porter

To my utter surprise, and I suspect to yours, Father's Day ranks as the second largest non-Christmas gift occasion in total number of gifts given—exceeded only by birthday celebrations. This Sunday in June ranks as the fourth largest non-Christmas gift-giving occasion in dollar volume—exceeded only by birthdays, weddings and Mother's Day. It accounts for about 10 per cent of the total non-Christmas market and 5 per cent of the overall gift market of more than $12.5 billion annually.

Each father this coming Sunday will receive an average of two gifts with an average value of $8.90 per gift, or approximately $18 per papa. That $8.90-per-gift figure is well above the $3.37 cost of the average Christmas present, and only the per-gift cost of weddings, anniversaries and Mother's Day tops it.

Finally, Father's Day is one of the three major occasions when the man of the house receives a present. The other two are Christmas—which absorbs 43 per cent of the entire gift-giving market—and his birthday.

Gift-Giving Market
These are the key findings of the Tie-Tie division of the Chicago Printed String Co., the world's largest maker of decorative paper and ribbons and, therefore, a company anxious to learn all it can about the gift-giving market. And therefore also a source eager to report, as Sol is, a company anxious to learn all it can about the gift-giving market. And therefore also a source eager to report, as Sol is, a company anxious to learn all it can about the gift-giving market.

The survey comes up with several obvious as well as unexpected items—all of which may be helpful hints to housewives and the kids.

The findings which Tie - Tie thought most startling was that almost one in five fathers (17 per cent) did not receive a present on this day last year. "They apparently were either ignored, forgotten or just plain left out."

Clear message: give him something, don't undermine his morale. The finding which I found most interesting was one that Tie-Tie didn't even bother to take out of a table. It was that, when asked what they wanted "throwing price and all inhibitions to the wind," a "chair, books" got equal rank with an "airplane, helicopter" and "camera, projectors."

Dream Items
Admittedly, "books" received only a scant 2 per cent of the votes, was dwarfed by the 35 per cent expressing desires for a new car, but still, to see books ranked with such dream items as an airplane and helicopter warms the heart of this reporter.

As for obvious aspects of practical shopping concern to you, the market of more than $12.5 billion giver, what men prefer most for Father's Day gifts are items of clothing. Specifically, shirts, 42 per cent; socks, 25 per cent; pajamas, 21 per cent; ties, 21 per cent; handkerchiefs, 21 per cent.

By more than two to one, these staples are preferred to such accessory items of clothing as belts, wallets, cufflinks.

Despite all the jokes about it, the tie ranks way up there. Although, according to CPS, men receive an average of four ties a year as gifts and one in eight receives more than 10 ties a year, the tie still is high on the "most of Father's Day list."

Sporting Goods
If you're going in for non-clothing items, select sporting goods: equipment, camera or camera equipment, tools, TV, radio or a phonograph to give him this Sunday. The surveys says this is a popular gift. Incidentally, on that gift tie market, the CPS study discloses that this source eager to report, as Sol is, a company anxious to learn all it can about the gift-giving market.

DEAR CY:

Any attorney costs a lot of money, but patent attorneys take the cake at a premium price.

Since I didn't want to pay the top rate, I ran a classified ad in the newspaper: "Attorney . . . Patent . . . desire spare time of practicing patent attorney in consumer and industrial patents." I got back six replies from lawyers, working for large companies, who would like to handle my patent work on the side. With one, I made a satisfactory deal. For a very small amount of money, he processes my patents and counsels me. If one starts making money, he participates in the income, up to a set amount.

DEAR CY:

I have been running a bicycle shop and have been thinking of getting into the lawn mower repair business. When you told a reader of the possibilities of these two businesses, had you thought about work on engines? This is a business today, the stock market would repair. If the sharpening of power mowers runs from $5 and up, and what are the charges for fixing the engines?

DEAR SOL:

Tractor Publications, Inc., 1014 Wyandotte, Kansas City, Missouri, publishes a booklet entitled "Small Engines Flat Rate Pricing Guide." In it are listed costs you might charge for various small engine repair jobs. Also, it includes how to determine what work is required on specific jobs, and how to write up orders. The average time other people need to complete the job may be the most important data you will get out of this valuable guide. With it, you can quote at the time work is received. JFK Would Rather Ignore Business Fears

Speech at Yale Defiant of Critics, Full of Threats

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Confession of error may be good for the soul — but this doesn't seem to include the soul of the politician. President Kennedy is sensitive to the criticism that his administration is against business. But it is evident he has either failed to read or prefers to ignore the basic reasons why businessmen are fearful and distrustful.

Lawrence

If the President had said in his speech at Yale this week that he had made a mistake — that he would not go beyond the law and seek to punish those who disagree with him, if he had cleared the air and acknowledged that until Congress passes a law fixing wages and prices, the administration has to right to exert the kind of pressure used in the steel controversy — American businessmen would breathe easier. If the sharpening of power mowers runs from $5 and up, and what are the charges for fixing the engines?

DEFIANT OF CRITICS

But, instead, the Monday speech was in a sense defiant and scornful of critics. The President said little of the recent "dialogue" between business and government is "clogged by illusion and platitudes and FBI agents are lurking around at fails to reflect the true realities of contemporary American society, and when or whether business is to be set free to resume its normal function of setting prices that will cover increased wage costs and bring a

"If a contest in angry argument fair profit. "What we need," said the President, "is not more labels and more clichés, but more basic discussion of the totally without resources in an sophisticated and technical questions involved in keeping our mighty economic machine moving steadily ahead."

Since when in free America is debate taboo? What does all this mean? Is it a warning that the views of the man in the White House must be treated gently lest he get mad and let loose more reprisals? That paragraph in the speech will produce its own dialogue for a long time to come.

Inflationary "Myth"
The President in his speech at Yale denounced as a "myth" the idea that federal deficits are in themselves a danger to our economic health — and statutory — duty of of unsound fiscal policy and deplorable concern for our economic well-being. If any of these things should happen, then confidence in the steel industry would be weakened, and the danger of stagnation would increase. This is the true issue of the Presidential speech writers' view of things, but they haven't looked up the original dictionary meaning of "sophisticated," which sometimes is defined but not on labor.

Every President in recent years has made a declaration equally general in phraseology as the last times in recent speeches in a man-paragraph of the above quotation from Mr. Kennedy's speech. The people haven't exactly tired of such "platitudes," but they do resent because businessmen want government itself to obey still can't understand his tactics some of them and to pay heed in the steel controversy. For he proceeded therein without law reveal that a government which when he endeavored to intimidate, continually spends more than it takes in and a government that of American industry in the management's takes in and a government that ing of prices. He still declares control by artificial measures the he was merely acting in the "public" workings of the national economy. But the national economy leads that same economy the recent "dialogue" between business and government is "clogged by illusion and platitudes and FBI agents are lurking around at
